WEEK-OLD HARD COAL STRIKE IS SETTLED; THREAT OF MARITIME WALKOUT REMAINS

Talks with West Coast Seamen's Spokesmen Take Favorable Turns

Shipowners' Association Offers To Start Contract Negotiations

BAN ON TAKING SHIPS TO SEA IS CANCELLED

More Important East Coast Settlements Continue at Impasse

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—Dealings with both AFL and CIO West coast seamen's unions took favorable turns across the continent tonight but failed to erase threats of double-header shipping strikes on all coasts later on.

In San Francisco, the Pacific-American Shipowners' Association offered tonight to start contact negotiations there tomorrow with the AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific Association officials said the union immediately cancelled a ban on taking ships to sea.

The union itself set a meeting for tomorrow morning to act on the operator's offer.

In Washington, the president and attorney of the operators' organization, J. B. Bryan and Gregory Harrison, were tied up in discussions with West coast unions of the CIO-dominated Committee for Maritime Unity. From the sessions came official reports of progress. Government conciliators said the West coast issues "have been narrowed down considerably."

No Sign of Settlement

Even so, no sign of a final settlement turned up.

East coast settlements, more important in the general picture because the government hopes to use them in setting the pattern for nationwide agreements, have been at an impasse.

The kingpin CIO National Maritime Union discussed strategy for a strike set for June 15.

President Truman talked with his cabinet about the maritime crisis and word seeped out that prospects were "pretty bad." The situation was so "delicate" that a House subcommittee abruptly halted an investigation of it until next Tuesday.

Yet Bryan said of the "pretty bad" appraisal:

"Well, there's always hope you know."

Will Compose Differences

Apparently he took it for granted that the Sailors Union of the Pacific would start talking contract with his association tomorrow. Asked whether he thought that would "remove the threat of an AFL shipping strike," Bryan told a reporter:

"Oh, I can't say as to that, but at least we'll compose the immediate differences between us."

Those differences have centered around the fact that Bryan and Harrison have been negotiating here with the Committee for Maritime Unity while the AFL seamen wanted them to go to San Francisco to talk with them about more wages and shorter hours.

Partially in protest, the Sailors Union of the Pacific and its parent AFL seafarers union staged work

Soldier Is Slain, Ten Are Injured In Naples Riots

Monarchists Demonstrate for King; Rome Outburst Is Broken Up

NAPLES, June 7 (AP) — Violent demonstrations by several thousand Royalists killed one soldier and injured at least ten persons in Naples today, while in Rome police clubbed down Monarchists shouting "Long live the king!" and "Down with the republic!"

The new outbursts in Naples by House of Savoy sympathizers, dissatisfied with the plebiscite rejecting the monarchy, broke out after fighting late last night in which one person was killed, eight injured and Catholic priests were maltreated. Priests were conspicuously absent from the streets today.

Heavy police guards, reinforced by troops, cruised Naples streets in light tanks and jeeps armed with machine guns. Early tonight gunfire continued and some fifty persons, many of them women, had been placed under arrest.

A soldier riding in the open turret of a tank was killed when police fired a volley into the air in an effort to disperse a crowd near the University of Naples. A hand grenade was tossed during the manifestation, wounding at least ten persons.

This afternoon leaders of the monarchist party in Naples, called to police headquarters, asserted they had not organized the demonstrators.

In Rome police used clubs to break up a demonstration by 200 monarchists in downtown streets.

Socialist Minister of the Interior Giuseppe Romita insisted, however, that tranquility reigned in all of Italy with the exception of Rome and Naples.

Crowds surged through the streets of Naples all day shouting "Viva!" for King Umberto II. As many as 5,000 passed through the railway station on at least two occasions.

Agreement Bars Action by House On Terminal Pay

Gentlemen's Pact Providing No Roll-Call Votes Blocks Passage

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—A gentlemen's agreement blocked House action today on legislation, to pay billions of dollars to past and present enlisted men for furlough time they didn't get while in service.

The agreement, entered into by party leaders earlier in the week to protect absent members, provided that there would be no roll-call votes today.

The House was all set to pass the so-called terminal pay bill by a thunderous voice vote, no opposition having developed during two hours of debate. But Rep. Brooks (D-La) insisted on a roll-call vote on which the members are recorded individually.

He declined to withdraw his demand after Speaker Rayburn called attention to the no-roll-call agreement, and the House finally adjourned.

The action left the bill unfinished business for next Tuesday, when its passage is virtually assured.

Member after member rose in support of the legislation today, citing what they called the unfairness of present regulations permitting officers to receive pay for accrued furlough time but denying it to enlisted personnel.

The pending legislation provides for lump cash payments at the time of discharge for enlisted personnel of all the armed services who did not get furloughs to which they were entitled.

It permits accrual of a maximum of 120 days of unused furlough time and provides for payment at the rate of compensation received at the time of discharge, plus allowances of at least seventy cents a day. It computes a man's furlough time at the rate of two and one-half days for each month of service.

Senators Backing Case Bill Return CIO Chief's Fire

Pressure for Presidential Approval or Veto Reaches Peak

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Six senators hit back today at CIO President Philip Murray's criticism of the Case labor disputes bill as pressure opposing sides for a presidential approval or a veto reached a peak.

In a lengthy statement, Sen. Ball (R-Minn), Byrd (D-Va), Ellender (D-La), Hatch (D-NM), Smith (R-NJ) and Taft (R-Ohio) asserted that an analysis of the bill issued by Murray last Sunday "shows clearly that the CIO is opposed to any restriction on the right of unions to conduct a strike in any industry at any time and in furtherance of any demands they see fit."

Murray had called for a veto of the bill, on which the president must act by midnight next Wednesday, with the assertion that it was designed to "repress labor and destroy its rights" and would "encourage and increase labor disputes."

Telegrams Swamp Truman

The senators vs. Murray exchange represented only one facet of mounting division in Washington over the Case measure, which would among other things establish mediation machinery, create fact-finding boards in public utility disputes, make unions subject to contract suits and outlaw what the sponsors call racketeering by labor groups.

In the House, opposing sides were circulating petitions for and against a veto. At the White House, Presidential Secretary Charles Ross said Mr. Truman has been receiving an unprecedented flood of about 3,000 telegrams a day for and against the bill.

There was no public indication that the president had made up his mind whether to approve or disapprove the measure.

In their statement, the six senators said Murray did not defend, nor suggest any other remedy for, the practices the bill was designed to regulate.

Mr. Truman indicated, meanwhile, that he is paying scant attention to the message inundation. Yesterday he told his news conference that while he was in the senate he had experience with what he called lobbying activities.

House Group Gets Truman Bill

He said he has asked various government agencies for reports on the effects of the measure and when they are all in he will make up his mind whether to sign the bill or veto it.

Meanwhile the immediate future of the emergency strike-control legislation which the president requested was placed in the hands of the House Rules committee. Six of the eight Democrats on the committee are from the South and solidly supported the original bill with its provision for drafting strikers when the House passed it May 25. The Senate later removed this provision and made other modifications.

Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, moved today to send the measure to a conference committee to adjust the differences between the two chambers. This action required unanimous consent. An objection by Rep. Marcantonio (AL-NY), foe of the bill, automatically sent it to the Rules committee with a consequent delay.

Wallace Doesn't Aspire To Head Any Third Party

Commerce Secretary Says Democratic Party Will Remain "Progressive"

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace made it emphatically clear today that he is not available to spearhead any third party movement of groups dissatisfied with President Truman's labor policies.

The Democratic party will remain "progressive" and a third party could only mean a "reactionary victory," the secretary of commerce said in an article in "The Democrat," official organ of the Democratic National Committee.

He expressed the opinion that the Republicans will nominate a "reactionary" for president in 1948, and lose the election.

Sam O'Neal, editor of "The Democrat," a monthly, said Wallace was asked to write the article so that the secretary would have an opportunity to elaborate on his anti-third party speech before the American Labor party in New York May 24.

Article Was Delivered Monday

O'Neal made it a point that the article was delivered only last Monday, after Truman critics had contended the president's request for emergency strike control legislation May 25 had pointed his administration far to the right. Some labor elements suggested Wallace or Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) as possible third party standard bearers.

Wallace's New York speech and an interview the same day in which he said the president would be a candidate again in 1948 and that he (Wallace) would support him came just before the president's radio speech denouncing A. F. Whitney and Alvanley Johnston, trainmen's and engineer's brotherhood chiefs, for the rail strike, and Mr. Truman's request for power to curb such walkouts.

The commerce secretary refused to comment when asked after the Truman message whether he still held to the views he expressed in New York.

In his article today, Wallace took issue with those who contend the two major parties are alike.

Many Folloy "Will-O'-Wisps

"There are millions of citizens who vote for Republican candidates for Congress and the Senate under the mistaken idea that the Republican party can be made progressive," he wrote. "They are following a will-o'-wisp. Let no one make any mistake about that.

"The rulers of the Republican party are those who fought Social Security, Farm Security, TVA, who thought we could do business with Hitler, and who bitterly fought Franklin Delano Roosevelt and all that he stood for for twelve years.

"They are those who are now against price control and a public health program. The rulers of the Republican party know, and any progressive Republican who seeks the Republican nomination for the presidency will learn, that a reactionary will be nominated by the Republican party—and will be defeated—by the people—in 1948.

"The record is clear. The Democratic party is the progressive party; the Republican party is the party of reaction. I do not believe that either party is going to change its spots."

DISCLOSE ARRESTS IN JEWEL THEFT

Colonel, WAC Captain, Arrested by Army, Admit Having German Treasure

Part of Loot Is Recovered in U. S.; Two Others Are Sought

By WILLIAM R. SPEAR

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—The arrest of a honeymooning colonel and a WAC captain in connection with the filching of $1,500,000 of Hessian crown jewels and other treasure from a German castle where their romance started was disclosed today by the army.

Officials said the couple admitted having the storied loot. They identified the pair as Col. J. W. Durant, 36, former attorney of Falls Church, Va., and Capt. Kathleen B. Nash Durant, 34, former hotel executive of Phoenix, Ariz.

She had carried on her housekeeping work in the army by directing the officers' rest home established in eighty-room Kronberg castle, where the trove had been buried by members of the old House of Hesse. It was there Durant met her.

Two others—a major still on active duty and a corporal who has been discharged—are sought, but their arrest is expected momentarily.

Of the treasure itself—diamonds, pears, amethysts and royal heirlooms—officials recovered that part which they said was the woman's loot. They placed this at twenty-five to fifty per cent of the hoard. The rest, they said, went to the colonel. The authorities do not have this portion now but indicated they know where it can be found.

Col. A. C. Miller, of the provost marshal general's office and his assistant, Lt. Col. J. S. Myers, unfolded the story at a news conference. They told it thus:

The hoard, in a lead-lined casket within a wooden box, was hidden in the deepest cellar of the 100-room Kronberg castle near Frankfurt-on-Main, which subsequently was tak-

KKK Is Linked With Two Crimes

Georgia Grand Dragon of Klan Calls Charges "Idiotic"

ATLANTA, June 7 (AP)—A Georgia assistant attorney general reported today his undercover agents had linked an inner—"strong arm" group of the revived Ku Klux Klan with a killing and a flogging.

Dan Duke, who is conducting the state legal department's investigation of Klan activities by order of Gov. Ellis Arnall, said that members of the Kavalier Klub boasted openly of the two crimes.

Publication of the charges in Atlanta newspapers drew from Dr. Samuel Green, a physician who is Georgia grand dragon of the Klan, a statement that they were "idiotic."

"Next they'll be accusing us of starting the LaSalle hotel fire in Chicago," he said. "Or I wouldn't be surprised if they blame us for the maritime strike."

He said every Klansman took an oath to uphold the law and to help prosecute any Klansman found violating the law.

Duke said the crimes his secret agents attributed to the Kavalier Klub were the slaying of a negro taxi driver and the flogging by a masked band of a 21-year-old negro navy veteran.

The taxi driver, Porter Turner, was stabbed to death last August and his body dumped on the lawn of a physician in Dekalb county, a part of the Atlanta metropolitan area.

The navy veteran, Hugh John-

Miners Will Get Health-Welfare Fund, 18 1-2 Cents An Hour Pay Hike

UMW Official Says Men Will Be Told To Return to Work Monday

AGREEMENT PARALLELS SOFT COAL CONTRACT

Three Trustees, Two Named by Lewis, Will Administer Fund

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — The AFL-United Mine Workers today announced settlement of their week-old strike against anthracite coal operators on the basis of an eighteen and one-half cents an hour wage increase and a health and welfare fund which operators estimate will cost between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 a year.

Thomas J. Kennedy, UMW secretary-treasurer, announced the new contract at a news conference. He said the miners would be directed to return to work on Monday.

Approximately 75,000 have been idle in the Pennsylvania hard coal pits.

A spokesman for the operators estimated the increased overhead from the new contract would add approximately $1 a ton to the retail price of anthracite—used chiefly for home heating.

The health and welfare fund—to be financed by a five cent a ton royalty on all hard coal mined—would amount to $2,700,000 on the basis of last year's production.

The agreement as announced by Kennedy closely parallels the contract the UMW signed in Washington with the government for 400,000 bituminous coal miners recently.

Two Trustees from Union

An eighteen and one-half cents an hour wage boost and a health and welfare fund were won by the union in the soft coal negotiations.

The UMW, however, won a concession from hard coal operators in the health and welfare fund which it did not obtain from the government. Under the agreement the fund will be administered by three trustees—two of whom will be named by UMW President John L. Lewis and a third by the operators.

The soft coal agreement provided for one trustee selected by the UMW, one by the government and a third by the first two.

Also included in the new contract is a provision for vacation pay of $100 instead of the present $75 for ten days' time off.

That point also was included in the bituminous agreement.

Although the hard coal miners will be paid their vacation pay this summer, Kennedy said the miners had agreed actually to take off only four days—July 4-7 inclusive. Such a limitation was not written into the soft coal agreement.

UMW wages in the anthracite field now range from an average ninety-eight cents an hour for outside workers, $1.05 an hour for inside workers and $1.19 for miners.

The eighteen and a half cents an

Infants Are Banned From Bride Ships

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Infants under six months will be banned from bride ships bringing American servicemen's families from the European and Mediterranean theaters, the War department announced tonight.

This action was taken after study of a report submitted earlier this week by the board of inquiry which investigated the epidemic, tentatively identified as infectious diarrhea, among children aboard the army transport Zebulon Vance.

Nineteen infants were taken from the Vance to the hospital at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. Of these six have died. Three other infant passengers from this ship are reported to have died in various sections of the country "from acute diarrhea."

Since the movement of war brides began, twenty-two infants' deaths have been reported, five of them children who were not under army care. One of the infants dying aboard ship was a premature birth.

Through June 5, a total of 10,626 infants and children have been embarked from the European and Mediterranean theaters. This means, the War department said, that the mortality rate has been less than two-tenths of one per cent.

No expectant mother beyond six months pregnancy will be carried, and no ship is to be loaded with more than twenty-five per cent of children under six years of age.

Youth, 18, Borrows Money To Obtain License To Wed 79-Year-Old Widow

LOUISA, Ky., June 7 (AP)—Eighteen-year-old Delbert (Shorty) Sprouse finally obtained a marriage license today to wed Mrs. Mattie Lyons Large, 79-year-old widow and grandmother of forty-nine children, after borrowing some money from the prospective bride to provide enough money for the license.

It was young Sprouse's third trip to the county clerk's office in two days. The first time he failed to have the written consent of his parents. The second time he discovered the license cost more than he expected and went back home to borrow the extra money.

Plans for the wedding today were dropped when Sprouse ran into difficulties in finding a minister to officiate. But he said later that "the minister has been taken care of" and that the ceremony would be performed tomorrow at Mrs. Large's home.

The couple expect to start housekeeping in Mrs. Large's home on a farm adjoining that of the Sprouse family. Asked whether he was looking forward to the announced nuptials, Sprouse said, "Well, sorta." Mrs. Large declined to elaborate, saying, "Well, you never know."

Young Sprouse, bearing the written consent of his parents, obtained the mariage license today from Lawrence County Clerk W. H. Moore, who yesterday refused to issue the writ without such consent. Kentucky law requires the permission of the parents for marriage licenses issued to persons under 21 years of age.

Dr. J. E. Carter made the blood tests for the couple, another requirement of Kentucky law, and both applicants passed satisfactorily.

Mrs. Large, a widow for seventeen years, is the mother of seven living children and forty-nine grandchildren, the youngest of whom is the same age as her prospective husband.

Her family and the Sprouse family were neighbors for several years on farms near here.

"We'd been talking it over lately," Dr. Carter quoted Mrs. Large as saying, "and decided to get married."

The physician said she at first gave her age as 40, but later said she was 79. Mrs. Large draws an old age pension, which Dr. Carter said would be cancelled if she remarries

Milk Price Boost Is Ordered by OPA

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP)—Milk prices were ordered up a penny a quart in a big part of the United States today, heralding a general butter and cheese hike due next week.

OPA put the increase for milk into effect. It excluded a few areas altogether and held the rise to a half cent a quart in some other sections because of previous increases.

The agency also announced that in twenty-two federal marketing areas under agriculture department jurisdiction, the full one cent price boost probably will become effective shortly.

In hiking prices to give producers an additional forty cents per hundred pounds of milk, OPA acted on orders from Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles. He said earlier that the increases were caused by higher grain costs and "apparent congressional determination to slash food subsidies."

Along with the price hike for quarts of standard milk, OPA ordered these other immediate increases in the areas covered:

Coffee cream and other cream with sixteen per cent or more butterfat, one-half cent a half-pint; half milk and half cream one-half cent a half-pint; pints of standard milk, one-half cent; and one-half cent a quart for skim milk, buttermilk, chocolate milk and other flavored drinks.

In single bottle sales, prices may be rounded to the next highest cent in cases where ceilings figure out at one-half cent a bottle.

Barkley Delivers OPA Bill to Senate

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) formally handed the Banking committee's curtailed version of price control to the Senate today with the announcement that he is ready to fight some of the changes.

He said the reason he brought it in was that it is "urgently necessary" to take action well in advance of June 30, the present expiration date of OPA.

The normal procedure would have been for the committee report to come from Chairman Wagner (D-NY). The chairman, however, was on the losing side in the fight to retain OPA powers, and plans to sponsor a minority report instead.

The Senate thus got the measure left-handedly just after representatives of a number of labor unions told reporters at a special news conference that if the bill becomes law it will set a new round of wage demands and bring national disaster.

CIO President Philip Murray, in a statement read at the conference held by more than thirty organizations in the labor, education and consumer fields, called the measure "a complete surrender to the forces of inflation."

Clifford T. McAvoy, of the CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said that union "will be forced to make new wage demands" if the bill becomes law.

Martin H. Miller, representing A. F. Whitney's Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said this year's strikes would be "as nothing" to next year's if prices continue to "balloon."

One-Eyed Informer Unfolds Story Of Murder-for-Money Which Failed

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — The nonchalant story of a murder-for-money which failed was unfolded today in Brooklyn county court by Ernest "The Hawk" Rupolo, one-eyed informer.

"Occupation?" they asked the Hawk as he settled into the witness chair.

"Stabbing, killing, burglary or any other crime I got paid for," he replied.

Recently, however, his time has been spent in Bronx county jail.

Thirty-four-year-old Rupolo was a witness at the first degree murder trial of Vito Genovese, charged with arranging the 1934 slaying of Ferdinand Boccia — the "Shadow".

The Hawk said he was hired for $500 by Genovese and other men — who he said were members of the notorious "Unione Sicilione," successor to the Mafia "Black Hand" gang — to murder Boccia's body guard, William Gallo.

Boccia was shot to death in a Brooklyn club, shortly after he was alleged to have demanded $35,000 as his share of a "Unione Sicilione" deal.

Rupolo said plans for the slayings were laid in a cafeteria where he met Mike Mirandi.

"Mirandi said to me 'the Shadow and Gallo are no good. I want you to put Gallo and the Shadow on the spot so they can be killed.' "

"I said, 'No, I won't do that. I'd rather kill them myself.' "

Negotiations for the slayings went on for a year, Rupolo said.

Gallo, who had been in jail, was released and Rupolo began cementing a friendship with him, while awaiting word that the Shadow had been killed — the sign for disposing of Gallo, Rupolo continued.

Word finally came of the Shadow's violent end, and Rupolo and a man named Young took Gallo for an auto ride, he testified.

"As we were riding I took out my gun and put it to Gallo's head. It clicked three times but didn't go off. Gallo said, 'What the hell are you doing?' I said, 'I was only kidding.'"

Then he oiled up his gun, he testified, and he and Young fired nine shots at Gallo and left him on the street for dead.

"The next day I saw Mirandi and he was hollering because Gallo did not die and because I did not pour gasoline over him like he ordered me to."

Ionosphere Test Is Set for June 27

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—The navy has constructed a tiny robot laboratory in the nose of a giant rocket and plans to drive it 100 miles high to send back scientific information.

The Bureau of Research and Inventions announced today that the first flight will be June 27 at the White Sands proving ground, Las Cruces, N. M., where other rocket tests have been made.

The flying laboratory will seek answers to "some of the most baffling problems about the universe," the announcement said. It is expected to reach the lower areas of the ionosphere which lies from fifty to 300 miles above the earth's surface.

Some of the things to be studied are the cosmic ray, electrons, and high altitude radio and radar transmission.

Scientists will be stationed at many observation points with equipment to track the rocket in its six-minute flight. They will record the data in radios back to earth.

Later the rocket flights may be extended into space almost double the 100 miles planned for the first one.

"The June 27 test will be but the first step in a long range research program to bring back from the unknown regions of the upper atmosphere scientific knowledge that may open up new frontiers to mankind," Rear Adm. H. J. Bowen, chief of research and inventions, said.

Agreement Bars Action by House On Terminal Pay

Gentlemen's Pact Providing No Roll-Call Votes Blocks Passage

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—A gentlemen's agreement blocked House action today on legislation to pay billions of dollars to past and present enlisted men for furlough time they didn't get while in service.

He declined to withdraw his demand after Speaker Rayburn called attention to the no-roll-call agreement, and the House finally adjourned.

The action left the bill unfinished business for next Tuesday, when its passage is virtually assured.

Member after member rose in support of the legislation today, citing what they called the unfairness of present regulations permitting officers to receive pay for accrued furlough time but denying it to enlisted personnel.

The pending legislation provides for lump cash payments at the time of discharge for enlisted personnel of all the armed services who did not get furloughs to which they were entitled.

It permits accrual of a maximum of 120 days of unused furlough time and provides for payment at the rate of compensation received at the time of discharge, plus allowances of at least seventy cents a day. It computes a man's furlough time at the rate of two and one-half days for each month of service.

Youth, 18, Borrows Money To Obtain License To Wed 79-Year-Old Widow

LOUISA, Ky., June 7 (AP)—Eighteen-year-old Delbert (Shorty) Sprouse finally obtained a marriage license today to wed Mrs. Mattie Lyons Large, 79-year-old widow and grandmother of forty-nine children, after borrowing some money from the prospective bride to provide enough money for the license.

It was young Sprouse's third trip to the county clerk's office in two days. The first time he failed to have the written consent of his parents. The second time he discovered the license cost more than he expected and went back home to borrow the extra money.

Plans for the wedding today were dropped when Sprouse ran into difficulties in finding a minister to officiate. But he said later that "the minister has been taken care of" and that the ceremony would be performed tomorrow at Mrs. Large's home.

The couple expect to start housekeeping in Mrs. Large's home on a farm adjoining that of the Sprouse family. Asked whether he was looking forward to the announced nuptials, Sprouse said, "Well, sorta." Mrs. Large declined to elaborate, saying, "Well, you never know."

Young Sprouse, bearing the written consent of his parents, obtained the mariage license today from Lawrence County Clerk W. H. Moore, who yesterday refused to issue the writ without such consent. Kentucky law requires the permission of the parents for marriage licenses issued to persons under 21 years of age.

Dr. J. E. Carter made the blood tests for the couple, another requirement of Kentucky law, and both applicants passed satisfactorily.

Mrs. Large, a widow for seventeen years, is the mother of seven living children and forty-nine grandchildren, the youngest of whom is the same age as her prospective husband.

Her family and the Sprouse family were neighbors for several years on farms near here.

"We'd been talking it over lately," Dr. Carter quoted Mrs. Large as saying, "and decided to get married."

The physician said she at first gave her age as 40, but later said she was 79. Mrs. Large draws an old age pension, which Dr. Carter said would be cancelled if she remarries

Senators Backing Case Bill Return CIO Chief's Fire

Pressure for Presidential Approval or Veto Reaches Peak

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Six senators hit back today at CIO President Philip Murray's criticism of the Case labor disputes bill as pressure opposing sides for a presidential approval or a veto reached a peak.

In a lengthy statement, Sen. Ball (R-Minn), Byrd (D-Va), Ellender (D-La), Hatch (D-NM), Smith (R-NJ) and Taft (R-Ohio) asserted that an analysis of the bill issued by Murray last Sunday "shows clearly that the CIO is opposed to any restriction on the right of unions to conduct a strike in any industry at any time and in furtherance of any demands they see fit."

Murray had called for a veto of the bill, on which the president must act by midnight next Wednesday, with the assertion that it was designed to "repress labor and destroy its rights" and would "encourage and increase labor disputes."

Telegrams Swamp Truman

The senators vs. Murray exchange represented only one facet of mounting division in Washington over the Case measure, which would among other things establish mediation machinery, create fact-finding boards in public utility disputes, make unions subject to contract suits and outlaw what the sponsors call racketeering by labor groups.

In the House, opposing sides were circulating petitions for and against a veto. At the White House, Presidential Secretary Charles Ross said Mr. Truman has been receiving an unprecedented flood of about 3,000 telegrams a day for and against the bill.

There was no public indication that the president had made up his mind whether to approve or disapprove the measure.

In their statement, the six senators said Murray did not defend, nor suggest any other remedy for, the practices the bill was designed to regulate.

Mr. Truman indicated, meanwhile, that he is paying scant attention to the message inundation. Yesterday he told his news conference that while he was in the senate he had experience with what he called lobbying activities.

House Group Gets Truman Bill

He said he has asked various government agencies for reports on the effects of the measure and when they are all in he will make up his mind whether to sign the bill or veto it.

Meanwhile the immediate future of the emergency strike-control legislation which the president requested was placed in the hands of the House Rules committee. Six of the eight Democrats on the committee are from the South and solidly supported the original bill with its provision for drafting strikers when the House passed it May 25. The Senate later removed this provision and made other modifications.

Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, moved today to send the measure to a conference committee to adjust the differences between the two chambers. This action required unanimous consent. An objection by Rep. Marcantonio (AL-NY), foe of the bill, automatically sent it to the Rules committee with a consequent delay.

Milk Price Boost Is Ordered by OPA

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP)—Milk prices were ordered up a penny a quart in a big part of the United States today, heralding a general butter and cheese hike due next week.

OPA put the increase for milk into effect. It excluded a few areas altogether and held the rise to a half cent a quart in some other sections because of previous increases.

The agency also announced that in twenty-two federal marketing areas under agriculture department jurisdiction, the full one cent price boost probably will become effective shortly.

In hiking prices to give producers an additional forty cents per hundred pounds of milk, OPA acted on orders from Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles. He said earlier that the increases were caused by higher grain costs and "apparent congressional determination to slash food subsidies."

Along with the price hike for quarts of standard milk, OPA ordered these other immediate increases in the areas covered:

Coffee cream and other cream with sixteen per cent or more butterfat, one-half cent a half-pint; half milk and half cream one-half cent a half-pint; pints of standard milk, one-half cent; and one-half cent a quart for skim milk, buttermilk, chocolate milk and other flavored drinks.

In single bottle sales, prices may be rounded to the next highest cent in cases where ceilings figure out at one-half cent a bottle.

Wallace Doesn't Aspire To Head Any Third Party

Commerce Secretary Says Democratic Party Will Remain "Progressive"

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace made it emphatically clear today that he is not available to spearhead any third party movement of groups dissatisfied with President Truman's labor policies.

The Democratic party will remain "progressive" and a third party could only mean a "reactionary victory," the secretary of commerce said in an article in "The Democrat," official organ of the Democratic National Committee.

He expressed the opinion that the Republicans will nominate a "reactionary" for president in 1948, and lose the election.

Sam O'Neal, editor of "The Democrat," a monthly, said Wallace was asked to write the article so that the secretary would have an opportunity to elaborate on his anti-third party speech before the American Labor party in New York May 24.

Article Was Delivered Monday

O'Neal made it a point that the article was delivered only last Monday, after Truman critics had contended the president's request for emergency strike control legislation May 25 had pointed his administration far to the right. Some labor elements suggested Wallace or Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) as possible third party standard bearers.

Wallace's New York speech and an interview the same day in which he said the president would be a candidate again in 1948 and that he (Wallace) would support him came just before the president's radio speech denouncing A. F. Whitney and Alvanley Johnston, trainmen's and engineer's brotherhood chiefs, for the rail strike, and Mr. Truman's request for power to curb such walkouts.

The commerce secretary refused to comment when asked after the Truman message whether he still held to the views he expressed in New York.

In his article today, Wallace took issue with those who contend the two major parties are alike.

Many Folloy "Will-O'-Wisps

"There are millions of citizens who vote for Republican candidates for Congress and the Senate under the mistaken idea that the Republican party can be made progressive," he wrote. "They are following a will-o'-wisp. Let no one make any mistake about that.

"The rulers of the Republican party are those who fought Social Security, Farm Security, TVA, who thought we could do business with Hitler, and who bitterly fought Franklin Delano Roosevelt and all that he stood for for twelve years.

"They are those who are now against price control and a public health program. The rulers of the Republican party know, and any progressive Republican who seeks the Republican nomination for the presidency will learn, that a reactionary will be nominated by the Republican party—and will be defeated—by the people—in 1948.

"The record is clear. The Democratic party is the progressive party; the Republican party is the party of reaction. I do not believe that either party is going to change its spots."

Barkley Delivers OPA Bill to Senate

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) formally handed the Banking committee's curtailed version of price control to the Senate today with the announcement that he is ready to fight some of the changes.

He said the reason he brought it in was that it is "urgently necessary" to take action well in advance of June 30, the present expiration date of OPA.

The normal procedure would have been for the committee report to come from Chairman Wagner (D-NY). The chairman, however, was on the losing side in the fight to retain OPA powers, and plans to sponsor a minority report instead.

The Senate thus got the measure left-handedly just after representatives of a number of labor unions told reporters at a special news conference that if the bill becomes law it will set a new round of wage demands and bring national disaster.

CIO President Philip Murray, in a statement read at the conference held by more than thirty organizations in the labor, education and consumer fields, called the measure "a complete surrender to the forces of inflation."

Clifford T. McAvoy, of the CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said that union "will be forced to make new wage demands" if the bill becomes law.

Martin H. Miller, representing A. F. Whitney's Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said this year's strikes would be "as nothing" to next year's if prices continue to "balloon."

DISCLOSE ARRESTS IN JEWEL THEFT

COL. A. C. MILLER, right, Allentown, Pa., of the provost marshal general's office, and his assistant, Lt. Col. J. S. Myers, left, New York city, go over the file in their office in Washington after disclosing yesterday the arrest of a WAC captain and her colonel-husband in the theft of $1,500,000 of jewels and other treasure from a castle owned by the ancient German House of Hesse.

KKK Is Linked With Two Crimes

Georgia Grand Dragon of Klan Calls Charges "Idiotic"

ATLANTA, June 7 (AP)—A Georgia assistant attorney general reported today his undercover agents had linked an inner—"strong arm" group of the revived Ku Klux Klan with a killing and a flogging.

Dan Duke, who is conducting the state legal department's investigation of Klan activities by order of Gov. Ellis Arnall, said that members of the Kavalier Klub boasted openly of the two crimes.

Publication of the charges in Atlanta newspapers drew from Dr. Samuel Green, a physician who is Georgia grand dragon of the Klan, a statement that they were "idiotic."

"Next they'll be accusing us of starting the LaSalle hotel fire in Chicago," he said. "Or I wouldn't be surprised if they blame us for the maritime strike."

He said every Klansman took an oath to uphold the law and to help prosecute any Klansman found violating the law.

Duke said the crimes his secret agents attributed to the Kavalier Klub were the slaying of a negro taxi driver and the flogging by a masked band of a 21-year-old negro navy veteran.

The taxi driver, Porter Turner, was stabbed to death last August and his body dumped on the lawn of a physician in Dekalb county, a part of the Atlanta metropolitan area.

The navy veteran, Hugh John-

Part of Loot Is Recovered in U. S.; Two Others Are Sought

By WILLIAM R. SPEAR

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—The arrest of a honeymooning colonel and a WAC captain in connection with the filching of $1,500,000 of Hessian crown jewels and other treasure from a German castle where their romance started was disclosed today by the army.

Officials said the couple admitted having the storied loot. They identified the pair as Col. J. W. Durant, 36, former attorney of Falls Church, Va., and Capt. Kathleen B. Nash Durant, 34, former hotel executive of Phoenix, Ariz.

She had carried on her hotel-keeping work in the army by directing the officers' rest home established in eighty-room Kronberg castle, where the trove had been buried by members of the old House of Hesse. It was there Durant met her.

Two others—a major still on active duty and a corporal who has been discharged—are sought, but their arrest is expected momentarily.

Of the treasure itself—diamonds, pears, amethysts and royal heirlooms—officials recovered that part which they said was the woman's loot. They placed this at twenty-five to fifty per cent of the hoard. The rest, they said, went to the colonel. The authorities do not have this portion now but indicated they know where it can be found.

Col. A. C. Miller, of the provost marshal general's office and his assistant, Lt. Col. J. S. Myers, unfolded the story at a news conference. They told it thus:

The hoard, in a lead-lined casket within a wooden box, was hidden in the deepest cellar of the 100-room Kronberg castle near Frankfurt-on-Main, which subsequently was tak-

One-Eyed Informer Unfolds Story Of Murder-for-Money Which Failed

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — The nonchalant story of a murder-for-money which failed was unfolded today in Brooklyn county court by Ernest "The Hawk" Rupolo, one-eyed informer.

"Occupation?" they asked the Hawk as he settled into the witness chair.

"Stabbing, killing, burglary or any other crime I got paid for," he replied.

Recently, however, his time has been spent in Bronx county jail.

Thirty-four-year-old Rupolo was a witness at the first degree murder trial of Vito Genovese, charged with arranging the 1934 slaying of Ferdinand Boccia — the "Shadow".

The Hawk said he was hired for $500 by Genovese and other men — who he said were members of the notorious "Unione Sicilione," successor to the Mafia "Black Hand" gang — to murder Boccia's body guard, William Gallo.

Boccia was shot to death in a Brooklyn club, shortly after he was alleged to have demanded $35,000 as his share of a "Unione Sicilione" deal.

Rupolo said plans for the slayings were laid in a cafeteria where he met Mike Mirandi.

"Mirandi said to me 'the Shadow and Gallo are no good. I want you to put Gallo and the Shadow on the spot so they can be killed.' "

"I said, 'No, I won't do that. I'd rather kill them myself.' "

Negotiations for the slayings went on for a year, Rupolo said.

Gallo, who had been in jail, was released and Rupolo began cementing a friending with him, while awaiting word that the Shadow had been killed — the sign for disposing of Gallo, Rupolo continued.

Word finally came of the Shadow's violent end, and Rupolo and a man named Young took Gallo for an auto ride, he testified.

"As we were riding I took out my gun and put it to Gallo's head. It clicked three times but didn't go off. Gallo said, 'What the hell are you doing?' I said, 'I was only kidding.' "

Then he oiled up his gun, he testified, and he and Young fired nine shots at Gallo and left him on the street for dead.

"The next day I saw Mirandi and he was hollering because Gallo did not die and because I did not pour gasoline over him like he ordered me to."

Miners Will Get Health-Welfare Fund, 18 1-2 Cents An Hour Pay Hike

UMW Official Says Men Will Be Told To Return to Work Monday

AGREEMENT PARALLELS SOFT COAL CONTRACT

Three Trustees, Two Named by Lewis, Will Administer Fund

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — The AFL-United Mine Workers today announced settlement of their week-old strike against anthracite coal operators on the basis of an eighteen and one-half cents an hour wage increase and a health and welfare fund which operators estimate will cost between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 a year.

Thomas J. Kennedy, UMW secretary-treasurer, announced the new contract at a news conference. He said the miners would be directed to return to work on Monday.

Approximately 75,000 have been idle in the Pennsylvania hard coal pits.

A spokesman for the operators estimated the increased overhead from the new contract would add approximately $1 a ton to the retail price of anthracite—used chiefly for home heating.

The health and welfare fund—to be financed by a five cent a ton royalty on all hard coal mined—would amount to $2,700,000 on the basis of last year's production.

The agreement as announced by Kennedy closely parallels the contract the UMW signed in Washington with the government for 400,000 bituminous coal miners recently.

Two Trustees from Union

An eighteen and one-half cents an hour wage boost and a health and welfare fund were won by the union in the soft coal negotiations.

The UMW, however, won a concession from hard coal operators in the health and welfare fund which it did not obtain from the government. Under the agreement the fund will be administered by three trustees—two of whom will be named by UMW President John L. Lewis and a third by the operators.

The soft coal agreement provided for one trustee selected by the UMW, one by the government and a third by the first two.

Also included in the new contract is a provision for vacation pay of $100 instead of the present $75 for ten days' time off.

That point also was included in the bituminous agreement.

Although the hard coal miners will be paid their vacation pay this summer, Kennedy said the miners had agreed actually to take off only four days—July 4-7 inclusive. Such a limitation was not written into the soft coal agreement.

UMW wages in the anthracite field now range from an average ninety-eight cents an hour for outside workers, $1.06 an hour for inside workers and $1.19 for miners.

The eighteen and a half cents an

Ionosphere Test Is Set for June 27

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—The navy has constructed a tiny robot laboratory in the nose of a giant rocket and plans to drive it 100 miles high to send back scientific information.

The Bureau of Research and Inventions announced today that the first flight will be June 27 at the White Sands proving ground, Las Cruces, N. M., where other rocket tests have been made.

The flying laboratory will seek answers to "some of the most baffling problems about the universe," the announcement said. It is expected to reach the lower areas of the ionosphere which lies from fifty to 300 miles above the earth's surface.

Some of the things to be studied are the cosmic ray, electrons, and high altitude radio and radar transmission.

Scientists will be stationed at many observation points with equipment to track the rocket in its six-minute flight. They will record the data by radios back to earth.

Later the rocket flights may be extended into space almost double the 100 miles planned for the first one.

"The June 27 test will be but the first step in a long range research program to bring back from the unknown regions of the upper atmosphere scientific knowledge that may open up new frontiers to mankind," Rear Adm. H. J. Bowen, chief of research and inventions, said.

Kauffman Offers Jaycees Proposals For Consideration

Several proposals were made by David Kauffman, president of the junior association of commerce at the monthly dinner meeting of the organization in Central YMCA, as projects worthy of consideration of the local group.

Among them were the investigation of reports and plans to establish several junior colleges in the state and the possibility of acquiring one in Cumberland; a study of the city manager form of government; and consideration of the public safety and traffic program as proposed in the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce schedule of activities.

The projects were referred to committees for discussion, development and recommendation to the general membership.

C. Eugene Howell made a formal report on the recent state convention at Hagerstown and plans were suggested for several social events.

New members received into the organization include Dr. Harry Butler, Edward C. Hansrote, Jack A. Murrell, Kenneth R. Shaffer, Stuart N. Rosenbaum, Marvin Kaplon and Maurice Milberg.

Enterprise System Evidence Emerges

TOO LITTLE FAITH is reposed in the working of the competitive enterprise system, the result largely of the extensive propaganda put forth by government agencies and bureaucrats for retention of government controls. Yet, in spite of all the postwar scarcities and governmental interferences, which have stymied the reconversion period, we are already getting an inkling of its operation.

Financial journals have lately reported that in many cities consumers are much less eager to buy anything offered for sale at almost any price. That is to say, a buyers' strike is under way. Hints of this have come in a dispatch from San Francisco to the "Wall Street Journal" noting that it has appeared in the realty field. With houses priced at double the prewar level, the buying boom suddenly collapsed early in May and since then sales have fallen off seventy-five per cent.

Of course, if this buyers' strike becomes more general, a disastrous inflation of home prices to be followed by an inevitable slump in which many purchasers will lose their equity may be prevented.

The newspaper mentioned has published the results of an inquiry among retailers in eleven cities concerning the present disposition of the public to buy. It shows that the "sellers' market" of the last five years is beginning slowly to change.

"What seems most significant in the consumer's state of mind," it says, . . . "is that his anxiety to buy so often slackens the moment the goods he has sought become available, even in very limited quantity. He then becomes more critical as to quality and price than he appeared to be when the same things were actually unobtainable. People who act that way, we think, are not inconsistent or vacillating; they are only acting on the reasonable assumption that when a few of the things long out of production appear in the stres, more are probably on the way and may bring prices down . . . . The typical consumer does not lack purchasing power, but he is beginning to realize that he had better not use it against himself. Except for his most pressing everyday needs he can bide the time of greater supply, as he learned to do during the war years." And that, of course is a good sign.

The important thing about this observation, which stresses this newspaper's point that the competitive enterprise system has not been commanding the faith it justifies, is to be seen in the statement that the consumer's anxiety to buy immediately slackens the moment goods become available. That is to say, as soon as production gets under way, the inflationary tendency evaporates. And that is just what will happen when production is resumed in full, whenever it is allowed to do so, and competition comes into play. All we are hearing to the contrary is just so much balderdash.

India Seems Headed For Independence

NOW THAT Mohandas K. Gandhi has formally indorsed the British plan for a new government of India, it seems likely that the All-India Congress party eventually will approve the proposal. The Mahatma no longer occupies an official position in the party, but his great influence should be sufficient to overcome the doubts and fears of the titular leaders. India seems headed for some form of independence, for better or for worse.

Doubts and fears found expression a few days ago when the Congress party working committee revealed, in a statement listing disagreements with the British plan, that it had been unable to reach a final opinion. But the Gandhi pronouncement declares that the Indian people can accept the offer "without perturbation" and describes it as "the easiest and quickest method of ending British rule."

This clear-cut conclusion should carry weight with many members of the rank and file of the Moslem league, which has stood in the way of every attempt to solve the Indian problem by insisting on a separate Moslem state. Whether Moslem cooperation will be forthcoming is a question.

It is encouraging that Gandhi has taken a definite stand. It is encouraging that neither of the two great political groups has rejected the British plan. Yet it is still too early to prophesy that the Indian people will succeed in adjusting their differences so that they can take full advantage of this opportunity to achieve self-government or independence as they choose.

The Climate Factor In Tuberculosis

(A guest editorial by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association)

NOT SO LONG AGO people used to travel far and wide "in search of health." This was particularly true if they had tuberculosis. They thought their only hope lay in a change of climate.

Today we know that a high, dry climate is not essential to recovery from tuberculosis. In fact, time spent in traveling around in search of a magic climate may delay recovery.

Increased knowledge about tuberculosis has taught us that recovery depends, not on climate, but on rest. The most important thing for the tuberculosis patient is to obtain complete bed rest. The best place to obtain this complete rest is in a tuberculosis hospital. A tuberculosis hospital near the patient's home is as good—and often better—than one at a distance, regardless of the climate.

A hospital near the patient's home has several advantages. It means that the patient will not be too far removed from his family to receive visits from his relatives from time to time. Usually, the patient is less inclined to worry about home conditions if he can see members of his family occasionally. And when a doctor recommends complete bed rest, he knows that, regardless of the physical position of the patient in bed, rest is not possible unless the mind is at ease.

Since recovery from tuberculosis depends upon treatment, and not climate, and the essence of treatment is rest, there is no reason for the tuberculosis patient to "search for health" by traveling to a far away place where, someone has said, the climate is ideal for "curing" tuberculosis.

No climate will of itself "cure" tuberculosis. Treatment for tuberculosis can be undertaken in any climate. The chances of arresting the disease and restoring the patient to normal living are best when treatment is begun early. Instead of searching for a "magic" climate, the tuberculous patient will save valuable time, and also money, by placing himself under competent medical care near his home.

Vinson Appointment Is "Not So Hot"

FRED M. VINSON, treasury secretary, is undoubtedly an able man, but his selection by President Truman to be chief justice of the United States cannot compel a great deal of enthusiasm for several reasons.

The first of these has been well expressed by Senator Hickenlooper, (R-Iowa) who declared that "it is an ominous thing when the president of the United States insists on almost entirely constituting the Supreme Court of the United States, which is, and must remain, the impartial tribunal of justice and above politics, with jurists who have been vigorous advocates of a special political philosophy."

Along with this, there is further natural regret that the president did not appoint a Republican in view of the fact that the supreme court is so overwhelmingly comprised of Democrats.

Still another cause for regret is the fact that Mr. Vinson is not a career lawyer. True, he is a law graduate and served for a time as a judge of the federal appeals court, but for the most part he has been engaged in various government jobs, both legislative and executive, the variety of which has been unusual. All this experience will, of course, come in good stead, particularly that in administrative capacities, since the chief justiceship is largely an administrative post within the court. Yet one cannot help from feeling that the position should be held by one who is more closely acquainted with legal and judicial work than Mr. Vinson has been for a number of years, with which, naturally, he is presently somewhat out of touch.

The new chief justice faces an opportunity of harmonizing the present court cleavage by demonstrating a strict impartiality and not bending over backward to help the leftward contingent, but the chances are that he will not be able to do so and that his membership in the court will in the end be just another source of strength for its New Deal inclinations.

To indulge in the good old American vernacular, the appointment of Mr. Vinson is "not so hot."

The local items in country newspapers are vibrant with the color and pulse of the country's most substantial people. And the newspaper people who get the items together and distribute them to the people by way of the country papers are practicing journalism at its fundamental best.

Mahatma Gandhi is urging that India adopt prohibition. Hasn't that country had enough trouble lately without adding bootlegging and gangster wars?

A volcano in eruption has been studied from the air by scientists in a helicopter. The boys just wanted to find out what was cooking.

Court Majority Under Frankfurter Is Seen Probable

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 7—All three major appointments just made by President Truman may be classified as "middle-of-the-road" so far as radicalism or conservatvism is concerned.

The new chief justice, Fred Vinson, is by no means a conservative. He has played along with the New Deal in Congress. In the post of secretary of the treasury, however, he has not allowed the left-wingers to formulate national policy.

Nobody, of course, can foresee how the new chief justice will line up on questions of constitutionality, but he will probably tend to go along with the thinking of Justices Jackson and Frankfurter rather than Justices Black and Douglas.

In a sense it is not fair to classify any of the present justices as radicals or conservatives—for seven are Roosevelt appointees—but their decisions at times reveal, nevertheless, a certain political animous which causes many observers to think they are still living in the atmosphere of party politics.

Harmonization in Doubt

Maybe Mr. Vinson will be able to harmonize the supreme court and keep it from making so many split decisions but this may be doubted. In the end there will be a grouping in the court consisting of Justices Frankfurter, Jackson, Burton and Murphy along with the new chief justice to constitute a majority. Justice Reed belongs in the group but he became so imbued with the viewpoint of the administrative side of the government when he served in the executive agencies that he almost always sides with the federal agency or department as against the citizen.

Broadly speaking, the basic issue in America is the encroachment of government on the rights and properties of the citizen. The trend toward confiscation has been growing. Maybe Chief Justice Vinson will head a new majority in the court to re-establish the rights of those who work through the years, save their money and expect to have their children enjoy the benefits if it without disturbance by an arbitrary supreme court which seems to change the rules at will.

Parker Selection Better

If a new justice had to be chosen from Washington's officialdom, it was better that the selection be made, as it was, from the ranks of former members of Congress. It will be recalled that the late Chief Justice White was formerly a United States senator. Also several members of the court have been chosen from congressional ranks.

It is unfortunate, of course, that the court now has eight Democrats and one Republican. These members serve for life. It would have been better if Mr. Truman could have selected Judge John J. Parker or some other eminent Republican with a background of juristic experience.

As for the new secretary of the treasury, John W. Snyder, his appointment is not surprising. It nas been believed ever since Mr. Truman took office that Mr. Snyder would eventually land in the secretary of the treasury's post. He has been much maligned recently by New Dealers. A systematic smear campaign has been directed against him though his only offense was to give to the president straight-forward advice which the New Dealers didn't like.

Snipers Answered

Mr. Snyder, therefore, remains not only an adviser to the president but he becomes the head of an important department. This is Mr. Truman's way of answering those who have been sniping at John Snyder.

With respect to the new undersecretary of the navy, John Sullivan, of New Hampshire, the president could not have made a better appointment. Mr. Sullivan is a Democrat of the liberal school and served as assistant secretary of the treasury under the last Roosevelt administration. He is an able administrator and a conscientious public official and this correspondent suggested at the time of the Pauley appointment that the selection of Mr. Sullivan would have been a much wiser choice, especially since he is well liked in the Navy department where he is now serving as assistant secretary. He is one of the younger officials who has made good in Washington and when Secretary Forrestal evacuates the navy job it is certain that Mr. Sullivan will succeed him.

Bernard Baruch Has Worked Out Plan For Abolishing U. N. Veto, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 7—Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch has worked out a formula for handling the atom bomb which may resolve other international problems. He hopes, by his formula, to persuade the Russians to drop their veto power over every step the United Nations tries to make. This has been the greatest single handicap to future world peace.

Baruch plans to propose that the atom be placed under an international committee — provided no member of that committee shall have a veto. Decisions must be made by majority vote.

Since the Russians are beside themselves with eagerness to be a member of any committee controlling the atom, they probably will accept this non-veto provision.

If so, Baruch hopes to use it as a precedent to show the Russians that the veto power should be dropped in regard to all United Nations problems.

North Carolina Statesman

Freshman Sen. Clyde Hoey, of North Carolina, likes to preside over the Senate when McKellar, of Tennessee, is ill or when other opportunities occur.

And he makes a most imposing figure in the chair. A former governor of North Carolina, Hoey wears a swallow-tail coat and the flowing bow tie of the old-fashioned politician. He looks every inch a statesman.

However, there is one important detail which the senator from North Carolina overlooks as he sits on the rostrom presiding over the world's most important deliberative body. He forgets that newsmen just above can look down from the press gallery and see what he is reading.

And believe it or not, during the crucial debate over the Truman labor bill, carrying history-making draft-labor provisions, the senator from North Carolina was surreptitiously reading a comic book!

Our No. 1 Enemy

Few people realize it, but if all the rats in farming areas were destroyed, enough grain would be saved to feed the starving peoples of the world. There would be ample bread, cattle and poultry feed and then some to go round.

Few people also realize that the rat population of the country shot up sharply during the war years, due to a shortage of chemicals for rodenticides and inadequate garbage disposal, so that our rat population is now over 250,000,000, or about two rats for every person in the United States. They do an annual damage of $500,000,000 to food and property, exclusive of their toll in sickness and human life by germ-bearing.

Government officials estimate that from 12,500,000,000 to 15,000,000,000 pounds of grain a year are being consumed or destroyed by farm rats. This is a rate of 100 pounds eaten per year by each rat City rats account for an equal quantity of food in homes, warehouses, stores and restaurants. It has also been found that a rat spoils a pound of food for every pound he eats.

To combat the rat menace, scientists in the fish and wildlife service of the Interior department are making good use of two potent rodenticides, produced during the war. One is the deadly "1080," or sodium fluoracetate, the most effective rat poison known. The other is "antu," the abbreviated name for alphanapthylthicurea, discovered by Dr. Curt P. Richter, of Johns Hopkins university.

Both are lethal enough to kill a dog or cat that feeds on a rat that has died from the poison. One pound of "1080," mixed with 4,000 pounds of grain, can kill 1,800,000 ground squirrels, while a small pinch of the poison would be fatal to a human. "Antu" powder is much less powerful but most efficient on rats. They die when licking the powder off their feet.

Despite the terrific rat menace, fish and wildlife officials are moving with methodical slowness. Not until next fall do they plan a nationwide survey to determine the effectiveness of their rat-fighting. Meanwhile, if they had got busier months ago, they could have saved millions of pounds of grain from destruction.

Messenger Boy Stettinius

United States newspapers referred to Soviet Envoy Gromyko as the Moscow messenger boy whose hands were tied in the Kremlin. This was true. However, we also had a messenger boy of our own at the United Nations, Ed Stettinius, which was one reason he resigned.

Stettinius wasn't allowed to make a move without getting directions from Washington, and on more important occasions Secretary of State Byrnes carried the ball himself. He didn't trust the handsome Mr. Stettinius.

At one point, Stettinius asked the State department to place him in command of all American diplomats attached to the United Nations, including Bernard Baruch's Atomic Energy committee and John Winant's Social and Economic council. The State department refused.

Stettinius also had strict orders not to make statements, not even open his mouth without orders from Washington.

For some time, Stettinius had been flirting with the Harry Byrd machine to run for senator from Virginia. So, a few days after Sen. Carter Glass drew his last breath, Ed resigned.

Note—Though Stettinius left the United Nations partly to avoid taking orders from someone else, friends are wondering whether he hasn't jumped from the frying pan into the fire. The notorious Byrd machine is equally good at giving orders and expects them to be carried out.

Vinson's Attitude Due for Test, Is Seen of Import

By MARK SULLIVAN

Before President Truman appointed Mr. Vinson to fill the vacancy on the supreme court, there were frequent assertions that the appointee should be a Republican. As usually stated, this rested on a simple theory, that the court ought to be more evenly divided between the two parties than it now is. Of the nine Justices, eight are Democrats, one a Republican. Every justice now on the court was appointed under a regime which is called alternatively "Democratic" or "New Deal"—in any event after President Roosevelt took office in 1932. Seven were appointed by Mr. Roosevelt, two by Mr. Truman.

But more is involved than appointment of a Republican at this time, or the numerical representation of parties at any time. The true need is for justices who ignore parties at all times, and especially who ignore the party and administration that may happen to be in power at any time. This need can be defined by describing its opposite, as illustrated by ideas put forward, and in some cases acted upon, after President Roosevelt took office.

Special Idea

Mr. Roosevelt had a special idea about the relation of the court to the administration. It came out by inference in a speech he made in his first presidential campaign in 1932. "After March 4, 1929," he said, "the Republican party was in control of all branches of the federal government — the executive, the Senate, the House of Representatives, and, I might add for good measure, the supreme court as well."

To those who did not excuse Mr. Roosevelt's statement as campaign exhuberance, its possible implication about a view he might hold was disturbing. The idea that any party or administration, at any time, has had or should have "control" of the supreme court was not supported by either history or principle.

With the idea that the court should or might reflect the party in power went another—that question about the constitutionality of legislation should be resolved in favor of administration policies. Mr. Roosevelt expressed this after he became president. There was before the Senate an administration measure, the Bituminous Coal Conservation act. To the committee having the bill in charge Mr. Roosevelt sent a message saying: "I hope your committee will not permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation."

Packing Disapproved

After two important New Deal measures had been held unconstitutional by the supreme court, Mr. Roosevelt in 1937 sent to Congress a proposal to reorganize the court, by enlarging its number to fifteen, thus adding six new justices whom Mr. Roosevelt would name. Of this measure the Senate Judiciary committee said with strong disapproval, that it had as its object a "change in the decisions of the court—a subordination of the views of the judges to the views of the executive and legislative."

In support of Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to change the court, his attorney general, Homer Cummings, who had much to do with formulating the proposal, said: "It is not a wholesome situation when an administration under a mandate to carry on a progressive program, must face a court of nine, with four votes lost to it in advance."

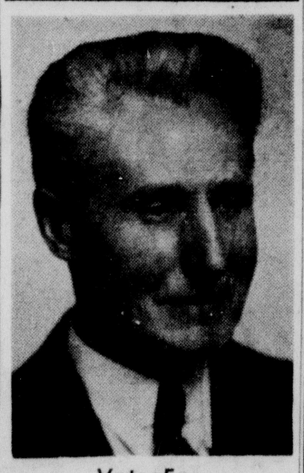

"Revolt against Philosophy"

And one whom Mr. Roosevelt later appointed to the court, Robert H. Jackson, wrote a book, "The Struggle for Judicial Supremacy", in which he said that President Roosevelt's attempt to change the court manifested a "revolt against the philosophy of many of the supreme Court's decisions on constitutional questions." He spoke of "the principles of representative government and the opposing principle of judicial authority"; and "the basic inconsistency between popular government and judicial supremacy". In allusion to decisions of the court in the past he said, ironically, "the opponents of majority rule won a brilliant and smashing victory."

The idea that the supreme court should reflect the administration in power, and hence the temporary popular majorities which elect administrations and change them, is the direct opposite of the dictum of Woodrow Wilson that judges should be men who "can discriminate between the opinion of the moment and the opinion of the age." The idea is contrary to what Elihu Root described as "the great principle of government and of civilized society, the principle that justice is above majorities."

Whether the new Justice, Mr. Vinson, holds the old and permanent view, or the one recently prevailing, will presently appear.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

In all the days of our lives we are greatly conscious of ourselves. In crowds, among our friends, among strangers, as well, and of course when alone in our most familiar haunts.

But somehow, in the forest or deep in the recesses of Nature, there comes to us—especially those of us who Nature—a sense of self-dismissal. We are then merely the audience, spectators, or visiting guests. Surrounding our very bodies, our thoughts, and our speculations are the voices, personalities, and varied wonders of Nature—out entertainers upon the vast stage of Nature.

In our daily lives there seems to be little dismissal of self. Meet anyone, and the most natural thing is to talk about one's self. This is not wholly bad. We learn from every revelation of another. And not always through talk alone, but by mere presence, or unconscious action. We are always on display.

In the world of Nature, however, detached from the din and turmoil of our workaday world, we come into a new experience—one of peace, reflection, and self-dismissal as an entity or personality. Nature consumes us, so that we become not only akin to her, but are melted and flow in her stream.

John Burroughs once stated that it was "so easy to get lost in the world." But how delightful to get lost in the thoughts, actions, beauties, wonders, and revelations of Nature! We are of the same substance of her. Her trees breathe. Her flowers smile. A flow of courage is to be noted in her very roots, branches, and blooms. And among her wanderers there is this same determination for survival. I see courage in the sparrow that sits upon a branch of evergreen, thick with snow, just outside my study window, in Winter time. She looks at me, and I at her—each wondering, perhaps, as to who has the greater courage.

In the presence of a great personality this self-dismissal is involuntary. It's a pleasing experience. It mothers our self-conceit, and pours spiritual splendor into our very blood!

As we all know, June is the month of brides. Up in Reno they're flying the flags at half-mast.

Nobody knows why so many people get married in June . . . the only sound, scientific reason advanced so far, is that the strong sun beating down on a man's head during that month makes him punchy and easier to catch .

There's been a great increase in the number of couples who are going to Niagara Falls for their honeymoons, and it's easy to figure out why . . . . they're up there looking for that barrel the guy went over it in . . . and the first one to find it gets to live in it.

Of course, brides aren't being carried over the thresholds anymore. . . . the husband just picks her up and jumps over the rope that holds up the tent.

And the material shortage is pretty bad, too . . . brides used to wear wedding dresses with long trains . . . now they settle for slacks with a short hand-car.

There's a shortage of everything . . . one bride has to wear the same orange blossoms her mother wore. It would have been all right, but the blossoms had bloomed and three seconds after the groom squeezed his bride to kiss her, they were up to their knee in orange juice.

Enterprise System Evidence Emerges

TOO LITTLE FAITH is reposed in the working of the competitive enterprise system, the result largely of the extensive propaganda put forth by government agencies and bureaucrats for retention of government controls. Yet, in spite of all the postwar scarcities and governmental interferences, which have stymied the reconversion period, we are already getting an inkling of its operation.

Financial journals have lately reported that in many cities consumers are much less eager to buy anything offered for sale at almost any price. That is to say, a buyers' strike is under way. Hints of this have come in a dispatch from San Francisco to the "Wall Street Journal" noting that it has appeared in the realty field. With houses priced at double the prewar level, the buying boom suddenly collapsed early in May and since then sales have fallen off seventy-five per cent.

Of course, if this buyers' strike becomes more general, a disastrous inflation of home prices to be followed by an inevitable slump in which many purchasers will lose their equity may be prevented.

The newspaper mentioned has published the results of an inquiry among retailers in eleven cities concerning the present disposition of the public to buy. It shows that the "sellers' market" of the last five years is beginning slowly to change.

"What seems most significant in the consumer's state of mind," it says, . . . "is that his anxiety to buy so often slackens the moment the goods he has sought become available, even in very limited quantity. He then becomes more critical as to quality and price than he appeared to be when the same things were actually unobtainable. People who act that way, we think, are not inconsistent or vacillating; they are only acting on the reasonable assumption that when a few of the things long out of production appear in the stres, more are probably on the way and may bring prices down . . . . The typical consumer does not lack purchasing power, but he is beginning to realize that he had better not use it against himself. Except for his most pressing everyday needs he can bide the time of greater supply, as he learned to do during the war years." And that, of course is a good sign.

The important thing about this observation, which stresses this newspaper's point that the competitive enterprise system has not been commanding the faith it justifies, is to be seen in the statement that the consumer's anxiety to buy immediately slackens the moment goods become available. That is to say, as soon as production gets under way, the inflationary tendency evaporates. And that is just what will happen when production is resumed in full, whenever it is allowed to do so, and competition comes into play. All we are hearing to the contrary is just so much balderdash.

India Seems Headed For Independence

NOW THAT Mohandas K. Gandhi has formally indorsed the British plan for a new government of India, it seems likely that the All-India Congress party eventually will approve the proposal. The Mahatma no longer occupies an official position in the party, but his great influence should be sufficient to overcome the doubts and fears of the titular leaders. India seems headed for some form of independence, for better or for worse.

Doubts and fears found expression a few days ago when the Congress party working committee revealed, in a statement listing disagreements with the British plan, that it had been unable to reach a final opinion. But the Gandhi pronouncement declares that the Indian people can accept the offer "without perturbation" and describes it as "the easiest and quickest method of ending British rule."

This clear-cut conclusion should carry weight with many members of the rank and file of the Moslem league, which has stood in the way of every attempt to solve the Indian problem by insisting on a separate Moslem state. Whether Moslem cooperation will be forthcoming is a question.

It is encouraging that Gandhi has taken a definite stand. It is encouraging that neither of the two great political groups has rejected the British plan. Yet it is still too early to prophesy that the Indian people will succeed in adjusting their differences so that they can take full advantage of this opportunity to achieve self-government or independence as they choose.

The Climate Factor In Tuberculosis

(A guest editorial by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association)

NOT SO LONG AGO people used to travel far and wide "in search of health." This was particularly true if they had tuberculosis. They thought their only hope lay in a change of climate.

Today we know that a high, dry climate is not essential to recovery from tuberculosis. In fact, time spent in traveling around in search of a magic climate may delay recovery.

Increased knowledge about tuberculosis has taught us that recovery depends, not on climate, but on rest. The most important thing for the tuberculosis patient is to obtain complete bed rest. The best place to obtain this complete rest is in a tuberculosis hospital. A tuberculosis hospital near the patient's home is as good—and often better—than one at a distance, regardless of the climate.

A hospital near the patient's home has several advantages. It means that the patient will not be too far removed from his family to receive visits from his relatives from time to time. Usually, the patient is less inclined to worry about home conditions if he can see members of his family occasionally. And when a doctor recommends complete bed rest, he knows that, regardless of the physical position of the patient in bed, rest is not possible unless the mind is at ease.

Since recovery from tuberculosis depends upon treatment, and not climate, and the essence of treatment is rest, there is no reason for the tuberculosis patient to "search for health" by traveling to a far away place where, someone has said, the climate is ideal for "curing" tuberculosis.

No climate will of itself "cure" tuberculosis. Treatment for tuberculosis can be undertaken in any climate. The chances of arresting the disease and restoring the patient to normal living are best when treatment is begun early. Instead of searching for a "magic" climate, the tuberculous patient will save valuable time, and also money, by placing himself under competent medical care near his home.

Vinson Appointment Is "Not So Hot"

FRED M. VINSON, treasury secretary, is undoubtedly an able man, but his selection by President Truman to be chief justice of the United States cannot compel a great deal of enthusiasm for several reasons.

The first of these has been well expressed by Senator Hickenlooper, (R-Iowa) who declared that "it is an ominous thing when the president of the United States insists on almost entirely constituting the Supreme Court of the United States, which is, and must remain, the impartial tribunal of justice and above politics, with jurists who have been vigorous advocates of a special political philosophy."

Along with this, there is further natural regret that the president did not appoint a Republican in view of the fact that the supreme court is so overwhelmingly comprised of Democrats.

Still another cause for regret is the fact that Mr. Vinson is not a career lawyer. True, he is a law graduate and served for a time as a judge of the federal appeals court, but for the most part he has been engaged in various government jobs, both legislative and executive, the variety of which has been unusual. All this experience will, of course, come in good stead, particularly that in administrative capacities, since the chief justiceship is largely an administrative post within the court. Yet one cannot help from feeling that the position should be held by one who is more closely acquainted with legal and judicial work than Mr. Vinson has been for a number of years, with which, naturally, he is presently somewhat out of touch.

The new chief justice faces an opportunity of harmonizing the present court cleavage by demonstrating a strict impartiality and not bending over backward to help the leftward contingent, but the chances are that he will not be able to do so and that his membership in the court will in the end be just another source of strength for its New Deal inclinations.

To indulge in the good old American vernacular, the appointment of Mr. Vinson is "not so hot."

The local items in country newspapers are vibrant with the color and pulse of the country's most substantial people. And the newspaper people who get the items together and distribute them to the people by way of the country papers are practicing journalism at its fundamental best.

Bernard Baruch Has Worked Out Plan For Abolishing U. N. Veto, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 7—Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch has worked out a formula for handling the atom bomb which may resolve other international problems. He hopes, by his formula, to persuade the Russians to drop their veto power over every step the United Nations tries to make. This has been the greatest single handicap to future world peace.

Baruch plans to propose that the atom be placed under an international committee — provided no member of that committee shall have a veto. Decisions must be made by majority vote.

Since the Russians are beside themselves with eagerness to be a member of any committee controlling the atom, they probably will accept this non-veto provision.

If so, Baruch hopes to use it as a precedent to show the Russians that the veto power should be dropped in regard to all United Nations problems.

North Carolina Statesman

Freshman Sen. Clyde Hoey, of North Carolina, likes to preside over the Senate when McKellar, of Tennessee, is ill or when other opportunities occur.

And he makes a most imposing figure in the chair. A former governor of North Carolina, Hoey wears a swallow-tail coat and the flowing bow tie of the old-fashioned politician. He looks every inch a statesman.

However, there is one important detail which the senator from North Carolina overlooks as he sits on the rostrom presiding over the world's most important deliberative body. He forgets that newsmen just above can look down from the press gallery and see what he is reading.

And believe it or not, during the crucial debate over the Truman labor bill, carrying history-making draft-labor provisions, the senator from North Carolina was surreptitiously reading a comic book!

Our No. 1 Enemy

Few people realize it, but if all the rats in farming areas were destroyed, enough grain would be saved to feed the starving peoples of the world. There would be ample bread, cattle and poultry feed and then some to go round.

Few people also realize that the rat population of the country shot up sharply during the war years, due to a shortage of chemicals for rodenticides and inadequate garbage disposal, so that our rat population is now over 250,000,000, or about two rats for every person in the United States. They do an annual damage of $500,000,000 to food and property, exclusive of their toll in sickness and human life by germ-bearing.

Government officials estimate that from 12,500,000,000 to 15,000,000,000 pounds of grain a year are being consumed or destroyed by farm rats. This is a rate of 100 pounds eaten per year by each rat. City rats account for an equal quantity of food in homes, warehouses, stores and restaurants. It has also been found that a rat spoils a pound of food for every pound he eats.

To combat the rat menace, scientists in the fish and wildlife service of the Interior department are making good use of two potent rodenticides, produced during the war. One is the deadly "1080," or sodium fluoracetate, the most effective rat poison known. The other is "antu," the abbreviated name for alphanapthylthicurea, discovered by Dr. Curt P. Richter, of Johns Hopkins university.

Both are lethal enough to kill a dog or cat that feeds on a rat that has died from the poison. One pound of "1080," mixed with 4,000 pounds of grain, can kill 1,800,000 ground squirrels, while a small pinch of the poison would be fatal to a human. "Antu" powder is much less powerful but most efficient on rats. They die when licking the powder off their feet.

Despite the terrific rat menace, fish and wildlife officials are moving with methodical slowness. Not until next fall do they plan a nationwide survey to determine the effectiveness of their rat-fighting. Meanwhile, if they had got busier months ago, they could have saved millions of pounds of grain from destruction.

Messenger Boy Stettinius

United States newspapers referred to Soviet Envoy Gromyko as the Moscow messenger boy whose hands were tied in the Kremlin. This was true. However, we also had a messenger boy of our own at the United Nations, Ed Stettinius, which was one reason he resigned.

Stettinius wasn't allowed to make a move without getting directions from Washington, and on more important occasions Secretary of State Byrnes carried the ball himself. He didn't trust the handsome Mr. Stettinius.

At one point, Stettinius asked the State department to place him in command of all American diplomats attached to the United Nations, including Bernard Baruch's Atomic Energy committee and John Winant's Social and Economic council. The State department refused.

Stettinius also had strict orders not to make statements, not even open his mouth without orders from Washington.

For some time, Stettinius had been flirting with the Harry Byrd machine to run for senator from Virginia. So, a few days after Sen. Carter Glass drew his last breath, Ed resigned.

Note—Though Stettinius left the United Nations partly to avoid taking orders from someone else, friends are wondering whether he hasn't jumped from the frying pan into the fire. The notorious Byrd machine is equally good at giving orders and expects them to be carried out.

Capital Chaff

President Truman's new flying White House is a shiny, double-decker, custom-built DC-6. It will fly the president to the Philippines next month. May also stop for the Bikini atom bomb tests. . . . Postmaster General Bob Hannegan plans a three-week globe-girdling trip this summer to check new air mail routes. . . . Eddie Miller, one of the more forthright State department advisers, has left the government to rejoin John Foster Dulles's law firm, Sullivan and Cromwell. Another young man deserting the ship . . . Australian Foreign Minister Evatt slipped into town for a busy day last week but took an hour out to visit Phillips art gallery where he walked around unrecognized . . . After a bitter fight, the Far Eastern Advisory Commission was permitted to retain all the handsome furnishings of the old Japanese embassy including some of the best oriental art work in the world. The State department wanted to keep the art work and the furniture in storage . . . Court Majority Under Frankfurter Is Seen Probable

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 7—All three major appointments just made by President Truman may be classified as "middle-of-the-road" so far as radicalism or conservatvism is concerned.

The new chief justice, Fred Vinson, is by no means a conservative. He has played along with the New Deal in Congress. In the post of secretary of the treasury, however, he has not allowed the left-wingers to formulate national policy.

Nobody, of course, can foresee how the new chief justice will line up on questions of constitutionality, but he will probably tend to go along with the thinking of Justices Jackson and Frankfurter rather than Justices Black and Douglas.

In a sense it is not fair to classify any of the present justices as radicals or conservatives—for seven are Roosevelt appointees—but their decisions at times reveal, nevertheless, a certain political animous which causes many observers to think they are still living in the atmosphere of party politics.

Harmonization in Doubt

Maybe Mr. Vinson will be able to harmonize the supreme court and keep it from making so many split decisions but this may be doubted. In the end there will be a grouping in the court consisting of Justices Frankfurter, Jackson, Burton and Murphy along with the new chief justice to constitute a majority. Justice Reed belongs in the group but he became so imbued with the viewpoint of the administrative side of the government when he served in the executive agencies that he almost always sides with the federal agency or department as against the citizen.

Broadly speaking, the basic issue in America is the encroachment of government on the rights and properties of the citizen. The trend toward confiscation has been growing. Maybe Chief Justice Vinson will head a new majority in the court to re-establish the rights of those who work through the years, save their money and expect to have their children enjoy the benefits if it without disturbance by an arbitrary supreme court which seems to change the rules at will.

Parker Selection Better

If a new justice had to be chosen from Washington's officialdom, it was better that the selection be made, as it was, from the ranks of former members of Congress. It will be recalled that the late Chief Justice White was formerly a United States senator. Also several members of the court have been chosen from congressional ranks.

It is unfortunate, of course, that the court now has eight Democrats and one Republican. These members serve for life. It would have been better if Mr. Truman could have selected Judge John J. Parker or some other eminent Republican with a background of juristic experience.

As for the new secretary of the treasury, John W. Snyder, his appointment is not surprising. It has been believed ever since Mr. Truman took office that Mr. Snyder would eventually land in the secretary of the treasury's post. He has been much maligned recently by New Dealers. A systematic smear campaign has been directed against him though his only offense was to give to the president straight-forward advice which the New Dealers didn't like.

Snipers Answered

Mr. Snyder, therefore, remains not only an adviser to the president but he becomes the head of an important department. This is Mr. Truman's way of answering those who have been sniping at John Snyder.

With respect to the new undersecretary of the navy, John Sullivan, of New Hampshire, the president could not have made a better appointment. Mr. Sullivan is a Democrat of the liberal school and served as assistant secretary of the treasury under the last Roosevelt administration. He is an able administrator and a conscientious public official and this correspondent suggested at the time of the Pauley appointment that the selection of Mr. Sullivan would have been a much wiser choice, especially since he is well liked in the Navy department where he is now serving as assistant secretary. He is one of the younger officials who has made good in Washington and when Secretary Forrestal evacuates the navy job it is certain that Mr. Sullivan will succeed him.

Vinson's Attitude Due for Test, Is Seen of Import

By MARK SULLIVAN

Before President Truman appointed Mr. Vinson to fill the vacancy on the supreme court, there were frequent assertions that the appointee should be a Republican. As usually stated, this rested on a simple theory, that the court ought to be more evenly divided between the two parties than it now is. Of the nine Justices, eight are Democrats, one a Republican. Every justice now on the court was appointed under a regime which is called alternatively "Democratic" or "New Deal"—in any event after President Roosevelt took office in 1932. Seven were appointed by Mr. Roosevelt, two by Mr. Truman.

But more is involved than appointment of a Republican at this time, or the numerical representation of parties at any time. The true need is for justices who ignore parties at all times, and especially who ignore the party and administration that may happen to be in power at any time. This need can be defined by describing its opposite, as illustrated by ideas put forward, and in some cases acted upon, after President Roosevelt took office.

Special Idea

Mr. Roosevelt had a special idea about the relation of the court to the administration. It came out by inference in a speech he made in his first presidential campaign in 1932. "After March 4, 1929," he said, "the Republican party was in control of all branches of the federal government — the executive, the Senate, the House of Representatives, and, I might add for good measure, the supreme court as well."

To those who did not excuse Mr. Roosevelt's statement as campaign exhuberance, its possible implication about a view he might hold was disturbing. The idea that any party or administration, at any time, has had or should have "control" of the supreme court was not supported by either history or principle.

With the idea that the court should or might reflect the party in power went another—that question about the constitutionality of legislation should be resolved in favor of administration policies. Mr. Roosevelt expressed this after he became president. There was before the Senate an administration measure, the Bituminous Coal Conservation act. To the committee having the bill in charge Mr. Roosevelt sent a message saying: "I hope your committee will not permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation."

Packing Disapproved

After two important New Deal measures had been held unconstitutional by the supreme court, Mr. Roosevelt in 1937 sent to Congress a proposal to reorganize the court, by enlarging its number to fifteen, thus adding six new justices whom Mr. Roosevelt would name. Of this measure the Senate Judiciary committee said with strong disapproval, that it had as its object a "change in the decisions of the court—a subordination of the views of the judges to the views of the executive and legislative."

In support of Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to change the court, his attorney general, Homer Cummings, who had much to do with formulating the proposal, said: "It is not a wholesome situation when an administration under a mandate to carry on a progressive program, must face a court of nine, with four votes lost to it in advance."

"Revolt against Philosophy"

And one whom Mr. Roosevelt later appointed to the court, Robert H. Jackson, wrote a book, "The Struggle for Judicial Supremacy", in which he said that President Roosevelt's attempt to change the court manifested a "revolt against the philosophy of many of the supreme Court's decisions on constitutional questions." He spoke of "the principles of representative government and the opposing principle of judicial authority"; and "the basic inconsistency between popular government and judicial supremacy". In allusion to decisions of the court in the past he said, ironically, "the opponents of majority rule won a brilliant and smashing victory."

The idea that the supreme court should reflect the administration in power, and hence the temporary popular majorities which elect administrations and change them, is the direct opposite of the dictum of Woodrow Wilson that judges should be men who "can discriminate between the opinion of the moment and the opinion of the age." The idea is contrary to what Elihu Root described as "the great principle of government and of civilized society, the principle that justice is above majorities."

Whether the new Justice, Mr. Vinson, holds the old and permanent view, or the one recently prevailing, will presently appear.

Self-Dismissal

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

In all the days of our lives we are greatly conscious of ourselves. In crowds, among our friends, among strangers, as well, and of course when alone in our most familiar haunts.

But somehow, in the forest or deep in the recesses of Nature, there comes to us—especially those of us who Nature—a sense of self-dismissal. We are then merely the audience, spectators, or visiting guests. Surrounding our very bodies, our thoughts, and our speculations are the voices, personalities, and varied wonders of Nature—out entertainers upon the vast stage of Nature.

In our daily lives there seems to be little dismissal of self. Meet anyone, and the most natural thing is to talk about one's self. This is not wholly bad. We learn from every revelation of another. And not always through talk alone, but by mere presence, or unconscious action. We are always on display.

In the world of Nature, however, detached from the din and turmoil of our workaday world, we come into a new experience—one of peace, reflection, and self-dismissal as an entity or personality. Nature consumes us, so that we become not only akin to her, but are melted and flow in her stream.

John Burroughs once stated that it was "so easy to get lost in the world." But how delightful to get lost in the thoughts, actions, beauties, wonders, and revelations of Nature! We are of the same substance of her. Her trees breathe. Her flowers smile. A flow of courage is to be noted in her very roots, branches, and blooms. And among her wanderers there is this same determination for survival. I see courage in the sparrow that sits upon a branch of evergreen, thick with snow, just outside my study window, in Winter time. She looks at me, and I at her—each wondering, perhaps, as to who has the greater courage.

In the presence of a great personality this self-dismissal is involuntary. It's a pleasing experience. It mothers our self-conceit, and pours spiritual splendor into our very blood!

Red Cross Will Aid GI's Family In an Emergency

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

How can I get my husband home from camp if anyone in the family became ill? He enlisted in the army. R. K. S.

Contact your local Red Cross chapter. At the same time write your husband to request a furlough from his commanding officer. The C. O. will ask the field director at the camp to certify the illness necessitating the soldier's attendance at home. The local Red Cross chapter will obtain from the family doctor a statement as to the patient's condition. This statement will be sent to the field director, who will forward it to the commanding officer for his appropriate action.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Please tell me when the One Thousand and Seventeenth engineers treadway bridge company was separated from the service. A. M.

The One Thousand and Seventeenth engineers treadway bridge company was inactivated at Camp Cooke, Calif., on November 15, 1945.

Entitled to Allowance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My daughter re-enlisted in the Women's Army Corps not long ago. Since then her husband has been seriously injured in an accident and depends chiefly on her for his support. May she apply for family allowance in his behalf? (Mrs.) G. F.

Yes. Tell her to fill out a family allowance application (WD AGO Form 625) and attach a certified copy of their marriage certificate, an itemized statement of her husband's income and and expenses and a certificate from his attending physician in which he explains the extent of his disability. This application and evidence must be filed with your daughter's commanding officer, who will forward it to the Office of Dependency Benefits, Newark 2, N. J., If evidence is accepted, he may receive $50 every month, effective as of the first of the month in which application was filed.

Allotment for Mortgage Payments

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Just before my husband re-enlisted in the army, he contracted for a new home. Is it possible for him to apply for a Class "E" allotment and have the money sent directly to the building and loan association which holds the mortgage? (Mrs.) K. L.

Yes. A Class "E" allotment may be authorized to a Federal Building and Loan Association for payments on a mortgage. The Office of Dependency Benefits in Newark will send the payments to the association your husband designates as payee.

Postwar Problems

If you're still in the armed services and have a problem regarding insurance, allowances, allotments, maternity of infant care for wives and children, or desire the answer to any other service question, white to Beatrice Fairfax, care of this paper. Nervous Strain Helps To Produce Stomach Ulcers

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Stomach ulcers are the scourge of the nervous. Their cause is not known, but they are so largely restricted to a certain type of individual that experienced doctors can almost pick out a victim of this disorder by appearance alone.

Ten times as many men as women are afflicted. Sufferers are likely to be young, hard-working, high-strung and tense. They eat fast, smoke or drink much, and live under great pressure, all of which leads to the conclusion that ulcers are sex-selective because men, with their heavier responsibilities, and less careful eating and drinking habits are usually under greater strain than women.

Next to nervous and mental disturbances, digestive disorders caused more illness among our soldiers than anything else and the greatest single item in these digestive troubles was ulcer of the stomach and the first part of the intestine.

An ulcer is an open sore. A little of the lining membrane of the stomach or bowel is lost leaving a hollowed-out place like a crater.

A definite diagnosis can be made in most instances by the use of the x-ray.

Ulcer causes attacks of pain in thep it of the stomach which usually develop one to three hours after meals. Food, especially milk, relieves the pain but, after a few hours the pain returns. Often the patient awakens at night with excruciating pain in the abdomen. It would appear that ulcers tend to recur in the spring and fall.

Ulcers are not too difficult to cure but it is most difficult to keep them from recurring. Rest, together with milk, cream, eggs, and cereals to help neutralize the acid in the stomach and the giving of alkaline powders under the directions of a physician usually permit healing to take place. If such medical treatment fails, if the ulcer bleeds or perhaps ruptures, operation is required.

Fort Hill 1941 Class To Have Reunion June 30

Class Discusses Active Alumni Association, Senior Rec Club

Fort Hill high school class of 1941 will hold its first reunion in five years on June 30. It will be an all day affair, beginning at 2 o'clock and will be held at Minke's Cottage Inn. There will be swimming, dancing and a basket picnic.

Plans were formulated at the meeting last evening at the school and the committee of arrangements was appointed. It includes Mrs. Loraine Brechbeil Montgomery, Mrs. Helen Smith Shank, Eugene McGill and Andrew Jackson Rice, Jr.

Final plans will be made at a meeting called for 7:30 o'clock June 14 at the school. All members of the class are urged to attend. The class is composed of 212 members and several are still in the armed forces.

Plans were also discussed for an alumni memorial rally, which will be held sometime in the fall.

Victor D. Heisey, principal, addressed the class and urged that the present alumni association become a more active organization. He explained that he would like to have members of each class participate in the association activities and suggested having four or five members from each class on a committee. The five boys—William Dennis-ton, 18; Paul Harrington, 18; Delbert A. Roush, 18; Joe Sam Barton, 17, and Eldon Adams, 17—had gone to Chicago on a lark celebrating the high school graduation of all but Adams, a junior.

Stores and businesses will close here for the funeral, which will be conducted by five ministers at the First Methodist church.

Atlantic City Firemen Fight Blaze in Hotel

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 7 (AP)—This resort city's twenty-two fire trucks responded to a three-alarm fire tonight to fight a blaze in the 235-room, fourteen-story brick and frame Senator hotel, which is located just off the board-walk in midtown.

Witnesses at the scene said 150 guests reached the street without injury.

An elevator operator, Ernest Bailey, said the fire started in the housekeeper's department on the third floor and that he turned in the first alarm at 8:20 p. m. (EST).

A hotel spokesman said 200 delegates to the thirty-seventh annual Rotary International convention which closed today, had checked out of the hotel, accounting for the small guest list.

Episcopal Young People To Attend Rally Today

Episcopal Young Peoples Groups from Oakland, Mt. Savage, Frostburg and Westernport will attend a rally at Emmanuel Episcopal church here tomorrow.

The program will start with a service of evening prayer at 4:30 o'clock conducted by the Rev. Austin Schildwachter, rector of St. Matthews church, Oakland, and an address by the Rev. Rudolph J. Gunkel, rector of St. George's church, Mt. Savage.

Following the service, a picnic lunch will be held on the church grounds.

Bids for Cast Iron Pipe To Be Opened Monday

Bids for 2,500 feet of six-inch cast iron pipe will be opened Monday, Commissioner William J. Edwards said yesterday.

Bids will be asked in connection with plans to extend a number of water lines in outlying districts this summer. Work will cover nearly every section of the city, and will furnish water for a number of districts not previously serviced, Edwards said.

hour raise means $1.29½ cents more for the seven-hour day.

The present five-day week was continued.

Also continued was the present policy of a sixth day's work being optional. If that sixth day is worked the miner receives time and a half.

The new contract provides for eight holidays a year in addition to vacation time instead of the present six. Kennedy said the operators had agreed to accept the Pennsylvania workmen's compensation and accident disability laws. Such acceptance heretofore has been optional.

Tenure of Pact Is "Open"

As in the bituminous contract, hard coal operators also agreed to accept federal mine safety standards and inspection. However, a provision was written into the anthracite agreement providing that the federal law shall apply only "where practical and adaptable" and shall not be construed as modifying the safety laws of any state.

On the question of unionization of mine supervisors the union agreed to be guided by a decision of the National Labor Relations Board which will be sought.

The tenure of the new agreement will be "open", Kennedy said, with no definite terminal point. However, he added that all provisions would be retroactive to May 31 when the old contract expired and miners went on strike.

Kennedy announced the new contract's provisions. John L. Lewis, union president, was a silent spectator at the conference table.

The operators who negotiated the contract with the miners and who attended today's conference were H. J Connolly, president of the Pennsylvania Coal Company; Ralph E. Taggart, president of the Philadelphia-Reading Coal and Iron Company and W. W. Inglish, president of the Glen Alden Coal Company.

Cobey Cries "Smear"

Cobey spoke briefly, telling his audience of his recent tour of Southern and Eastern Maryland. "As predicted by some people earlier in the campaign," he said, "the Lane people have stooped to a 'smear' campaign, because they can't find anything wrong with the record of Mr. Tawes. The same people who extolled his virtues all over the state in 1938 and 1942 are now 'smearing' him at every opportunity with many ridiculous ideas and false charges."

Cobey said the Tawes people are not making any effort to set up veterans in a special group, or to set them apart from other people. "I'm a veteran," he declared, "and I resent, as all veterans I know also resent this 'special class' we are supposed to be set into. If I am elected, I shall give the veteran the consideration due him, and shall strive to have the state's legislation for veterans integrated with that of the federal government, so he will get what he is entitled to. But I do not believe the veteran wants to be set aside as a tool for politicians seeking their favor."

Samuel T. Weatherholt, Democratic candidate for county commissioner, spoke, urging that workers concentrate on registration day June 18 and get more Democrats registered in the county.

Marriage Announced

Miss Myrtle Edy, Flint, Mich., became the bride of William E. Cooper, Flint, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brown Cooper, Red Oak, near Table Rock, on Monday, June 3, at the Methodist parsonage in Oakland, with the pastor, Dr. Denver C. Pickens, performing the ceremony.

Among those attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Jess Blamble, Mansfield, O.; Mrs. Raymond Conneway and daughters, Patricia and Jeanne, of Mansfield. Mrs. Blamble and Mrs. Conneway are sisters of the bridegroom. The couple will reside in Mansfield.

Light Frost Reported

Light frost was reported in some sections of the county on Wednesday morning but no damage was done to garden plants as far as could be determined.

There was also a light flurry of snow Tuesday, according to some Oakland residents. The flurry did not last long.

The government thermometer at Weber's recorded 33 degrees on Wednesday morning and 35 degrees Thursday morning. Rainfall on Saturday evening amounted to 1.68 inches.

Robbery Attempted

An attempt was made Wednesday night to break into Harve's market on the Mt. Lake road, but apparently the robber or robbers were scared away after a large front window had been smashed. Nothing was discovered missing by Harve Mussard, owner.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Sodality of St. Peter's Catholic church, Mrs. Angela Smart was named president; Miss Elena Pendergast, vice president; Mrs. Norman Wine, secretary; Miss Lucille Wolfe, treasurer. The formal installation will occur at a later date.

Recently the Holy Cross Foreign Mission club of St. Peter's church commemorated its sixteenth anniversary with a dinner at the William James hotel. Eighteen guests attended.

stoppages at all major ports yesterday. There were repeat performances in San Francisco and Seattle today.

In those cities, the Sailors Union of the Pacific voted against sailing ships operated by the Pacific American Shipowners' Association until a date was set for contract negotiations.

Bryan said he and Harrison would be unable to go to San Francisco immediately for talks because government mediators have them "stuck here."

Bridges Rejects Board Proposal

He said "we used our good offices" to convince Harry Lundeberg, SUP head, of that fact.

Seven unions, all affiliated in the CIO-dominated Committee for Maritime Unity, have similar basic claims. These are for wage increases of twenty-two to thirty-five cents an hour and a forty-four-hour work week.

"Specific details have to be worked out relative to collateral issues," the government progress report said, "and the (West coast) unions will prepare detailed information on these issues tonight to be submitted to the operators tomorrow morning for consideration."

A dispute between Harry Bridges's CIO longshoremen and warehousemen, concentrated on West coast docks, was aired in negotiations for the first time. Bridges met with conciliators and Frank P. Foisie, president of the Pacific Waterfront Employers' Association.

Afterward, Foisie told reporters that Bridges had rejected formally a government fact-finding board recommendation of a twenty-two-cents-an-hour pay increase for his union. Foisie added that he was willing to accept this boost provided the government paid the cost of making it retroactive to October 1, 1945.

Bridges declined to comment. United States Conciliation Chief Edgar L. Warren denied that Bridges had made a "final rejection."

The bill, not yet acted on by the Senate, prohibits cash furlough payments to officers or enlisted personnel in future wars.

Its cost has been estimated variously at from $2,000,000,000 to more than $5,000,000,000, with an estimated 15,00,000 men and women affected. Some legislators figured the average payment might be $250. Provisions are made for payments to next of kin of men who have died.

The tentative date was set for July 28. The meet will include contestant from the entire eastern area of the United States, possibly as many as 300 entries, judging from previous annual contests, and would also attract many parents and other spectators.

The airplane meet is one of the features on the program of the Summer Activities committee. The committee includes members from Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Deep Creek Lake.

Soldier Is Held After Truck Crash

Police are holding a local soldier who, they said, stole an Ort Brothers truck in South Cumberland and later wrecked the vehicle in Ridgeley after a chase across the Maryland-West Virginia line early yesterday morning.

The soldier, booked at 1:10 a. m. as Ellis H. Shifflett, 20, 900 Gay street, is also AWOL from the army, police reported. He is being held in the city jail for investigation.

According to Lt. James E. Van, Officers P. C. Jenkins and W. E. Chaney spotted the stolen truck on River avenue and gave chase. Shifflett, traveling at a fast rate of speed, headed toward Ridgeley and went as far as the Wiley Ford road junction before doubling back, he said.

Shortly afterwards, the truck crashed through a fence and stopped in the backyard of a home near the Western Maryland Railway bridge, Lt. Van stated. The vehicle, loaded with empty bread cases, halted just before hitting a rear porch.

Lt. Van was cruising on Oldtown road when he received radio instructions concerning the pursuit from Officer Jenkins. Shifflett was taken into custody by the two pursuing officers just before Lt. Van arrived at the scene of the crash.

Police said the occupants of the house were not aroused by the noise. The theft occurred about 12:45 a. m., police said.

Colonel, WAC

en over for an officers' rest home.

When Third army troops first moved into the area, thirty GIs went hunting for liquor in the castle. They found 1,800 bottles of choice wines. Then they found 1,600 bottles of very ancient vintage more carefully hidden near the treasure hoard. The circumstances indicated something else was hidden.

The corporal is alleged to have carried on the search, dug up the jewels and turned them over to the WAC, who was in charge of the rest home. Where the major came in, and just how the hoard was smuggled to this country, were not disclosed immediately.

At any rate the major and the corporal, Miller said, apparently did not get their share.

It was not any tip from those two but the subsequent marriage of the WAC and the colonel, Miller related, that aroused the suspicion of army authorities and set them on the trail.

Their marriage was discovered only last Saturday. Authorities went to take them at a small Wisconsin town which Miller declined to identify and where they apparently were honeymooning. They slipped away to Chicago and registered at the ill-fated La Salle hotel, scene of a flash fire early Wednesday in which fifty-nine perished and 200 were injured. They were arrested there Monday.

"We probably saved their lives," Miller remarked, "for they were on one of the floors that was burned out."

"Interrogation started immediately," he continued. "By noon Monday she had confessed her share. By 4 a. m. Tuesday we had her share of the loot. She did not unload any of it. The colonel had the rest."

"We do not yet have the jewels the colonel admitted having," Miller added.

The two technically had been discharged but were on terminal leave and thus under military jurisdiction. The WAC's leave would have expired May 30 but she was recalled to active duty the day before as authorities pressed their investigation. The colonel then was recalled to active duty after his marriage.

Despite the discharge of the corporal, authorities said all four probably would be subject to court-martial in the European theater under charges of larceny. The penalty upon conviction could be fine or imprisonment.

Miller said there was nothing in the previous records of any of the four to indicate any criminal tendencies—until the disruptions of war placed easy temptation in their way.

Robbery Attempted

An attempt was made Wednesday night to break into Harve's market on the Mt. Lake road, but apparently the robber or robbers were scared away after a large front window had been smashed. Nothing was discovered missing by Harve Mussard, owner.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Sodality of St. Peter's Catholic church, Mrs. Angela Smart was named president; Miss Elena Pendergast, vice president; Mrs. Norman Wine, secretary; Miss Lucille Wolfe, treasurer. The formal installation will occur at a later date.

Recently the Holy Cross Foreign Mission club of St. Peter's church commemorated its sixteenth anniversary with a dinner at the William James hotel. Eighteen guests attended.

stoppages at all major ports yesterday. There were repeat performances in San Francisco and Seattle today.

In those cities, the Sailors Union of the Pacific voted against sailing ships operated by the Pacific American Shipowners' Association until a date was set for contract negotiations.

Bryan said he and Harrison would be unable to go to San Francisco immediately for talks because government mediators have them "stuck here."

Bridges Rejects Board Proposal

He said "we used our good offices" to convince Harry Lundeberg, SUP head, of that fact.

Seven unions, all affiliated in the CIO-dominated Committee for Maritime Unity, have similar basic claims. These are for wage increases of twenty-two to thirty-five cents an hour and a forty-four-hour work week.

"Specific details have to be worked out relative to collateral issues," the government progress report said, "and the (West coast) unions will prepare detailed information on these issues tonight to be submitted to the operators tomorrow morning for consideration."

A dispute between Harry Bridges's CIO longshoremen and warehousemen, concentrated on West coast docks, was aired in negotiations for the first time. Bridges met with conciliators and Frank P. Foisie, president of the Pacific Waterfront Employers' Association.

Afterward, Foisie told reporters that Bridges had rejected formally a government fact-finding board recommendation of a twenty-two-cents-an-hour pay increase for his union. Foisie added that he was willing to accept this boost provided the government paid the cost of making it retroactive to October 1, 1945.

Bridges declined to comment. United States Conciliation Chief Edgar L. Warren denied that Bridges had made a "final rejection."

The bill, not yet acted on by the Senate, prohibits cash furlough payments to officers or enlisted personnel in future wars.

Its cost has been estimated variously at from $2,000,000,000 to more than $5,000,000,000, with an estimated 15,00,000 men and women affected. Some legislators figured the average payment might be $250. Provisions are made for payments to next of kin of men who have died.

The tentative date was set for July 28. The meet will include contestant from the entire eastern area of the United States, possibly as many as 300 entries, judging from previous annual contests and would also attract many parents and other spectators.

The airplane meet is one of the features on the program of the Summer Activities committee. The committee includes members from Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Deep Creek Lake.

Soldier Is Held After Truck Crash

Police are holding a local soldier who, they said, stole an Ort Brothers truck in South Cumberland and later wrecked the vehicle in Ridgeley after a chase across the Maryland-West Virginia line early yesterday morning.

The soldier, booked at 1:10 a. m. as Ellis H. Shifflett, 20, 900 Gay street, is also AWOL from the army, police reported. He is being held in the city jail for investigation.

According to Lt. James E. Van, Officers P. C. Jenkins and W. E. Chaney spotted the stolen truck on River avenue and gave chase. Shifflett, traveling at a fast rate of speed, headed toward Ridgeley and went as far as the Wiley Ford road junction before doubling back, he said.

Shortly afterwards, the truck crashed through a fence and stopped in the backyard of a home near the Western Maryland Railway bridge, Lt. Van stated. The vehicle, loaded with empty bread cases, halted just before hitting a rear porch.

Lt. Van was cruising on Oldtown road when he received radio instructions concerning the pursuit from Officer Jenkins. Shifflett was taken into custody by the two pursuing officers just before Lt. Van arrived at the scene of the crash.

Police said the occupants of the house were not aroused by the noise. The theft occurred about 12:45 a. m., police said.

Colonel, WAC

en over for an officers' rest home.

When Third army troops first moved into the area, thirty GIs went hunting for liquor in the castle. They found 1,800 bottles of choice wines. Then they found 1,600 bottles of very ancient vintage more carefully hidden near the treasure hoard. The circumstances indicated something else was hidden.

The corporal is alleged to have carried on the search, dug up the jewels and turned them over to the WAC, who was in charge of the rest home. Where the major came in, and just how the hoard was smuggled to this country, were not disclosed immediately.

At any rate the major and the corporal, Miller said, apparently did not get their share.

It was not any tip from those two but the subsequent marriage of the WAC and the colonel, Miller related, that aroused the suspicion of army authorities and set them on the trail.

Their marriage was discovered only last Saturday. Authorities went to take them at a small Wisconsin town which Miller declined to identify and where they apparently were honeymooning. They slipped away to Chicago and registered at the ill-fated La Salle hotel, scene of a flash fire early Wednesday in which fifty-nine perished and 200 were injured. They were arrested there Monday.

"We probably saved their lives," Miller remarked, "for they were on one of the floors that was burned out."

"Interrogation started immediately," he continued. "By noon Monday she had confessed her share. By 4 a. m. Tuesday we had her share of the loot. She did not unload any of it. The colonel had the rest."

"We do not yet have the jewels the colonel admitted having," Miller added.

The two technically had been discharged but were on terminal leave and thus under military jurisdiction. The WAC's leave would have expired May 30 but she was recalled to active duty the day before as authorities pressed their investigation. The colonel then was recalled to active duty after his marriage.

Despite the discharge of the corporal, authorities said all four probably would be subject to court-martial in the European theater under charges of larceny. The penalty upon conviction could be fine or imprisonment.

Miller said there was nothing in the previous records of any of the four to indicate any criminal tendencies—until the disruptions of war placed easy temptation in their way.

The mistreatment of Catholic priests was said to have been done by persons accusing them of blame for downfall of the Savoy Dynasty—a motive which puzzled observers since the church had never been charged with favoritism for the republic.

Stock Market Steadies Selectively But Lack of Interest Is Evident

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — The stock market steadied selectively today after five successive sessions of irregularly lower trends.

Lack of interest was evident from the start. Sizable blocks of low-quoted utilities aided volume. Despite individual strong spots, mixed tendencies held at the close. Transfers totalled 1,020,000 shares compared with 980,000 Thursday.

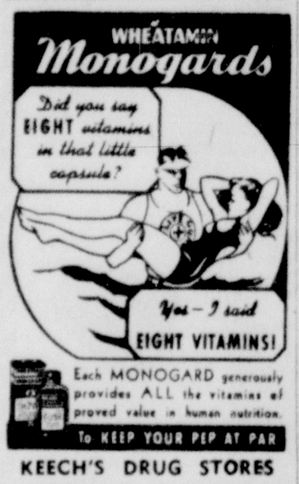

Sweets Company common, up seven and seven-eighths the day before, added seven and one-eighth more at $75, a 1946 top. Splitup proposals lifted Monsanto Chemical two at $177 and Federated Department Stores two at $75.50. Studebaker advanced one and three-eighths to $37.87. New York and Harlem, down twenty-seven points in the preceding session on ten shares, first transaction since February 19, dropped thirteen more at $285 on a ten-share sale.

Ahead were United States Steel, Goodrich, Woolworth, National Power and Light, Commonwealth and Southern (again the most active), Public Service of New Jersey, Anaconda, Dow Chemical, du Pont, Santa Fe, Southern Railway and National Can. Losers included Bethlehem, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodyear, American Telephone, Great Northern, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Cae and Douglas Aircraft.

On the plus side of the Curb were St. Lawrence common and preferred, Nachman, Electric Bond and Share and Dina Stores. Turnover here was 430,000 shares as against 410,000 yesterday.

Turnover of $3,210,000 compared with $3,980,000 Thursday.

Golf Tournament Awards Discussed At Oakland Club

Names of Tourney Winners Will Be Engraved on Clubhouse Placque

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, June 7 — Plans for golf awards for tournament winners, and other events to create interest in the municipal golf course, were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of the Oakland Golf Club on Tuesday night at the clubhouse.

It was decided to make awards each year to tournament winners which they will be able to keep instead of requiring a person to win three times in succession. A plaque is also to be made for the clubhouse upon which the names of all tournament winners will be engraved.

The committee named Wednesdays as Ladies day when men will not be allowed to start a game between 1 and 2 p. m.

A playground for children, supervised by the Girl Scouts, is now available, enabling parents to play golf and leave their children at the playground. Bingo games are also planned for Thursday nights, beginning next week. The executive committee is to meet June 18, and a meeting of all club members is scheduled for Friday, June 28. The committee stressed the fact that the course is a municipal course and open to the general public.

Red Cross Sets Up Six First Aid Posts on Lake

Committee Makes Two Inhalators Available at Deep Creek

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, June 6—The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross has established six emergency first aid stations on Deep Creek lake and has made available two of the latest types H-H portable inhalators, it was announced by the First Aid committee.

The stations are located at Savage's Service center, McHenry; Point View inn, Railey's Stone tavern, Cabin lodge, Beckman-Foy area, and Harvey's peninsula. Inhalators are at Cabin lodge and Point View inn.

Each of the six stations is equipped with stretcher, half ring splint, two blankets and a twenty-four-unit first aid kit, all purchased by the local chapter. The equipment, including highway signs, was in place on the evening of Memorial day.

To qualify a station, a minimum of two trained volunteers at each location are required to have both standard and advanced first aid certificates. The stations have been approved by the Eastern area headquarters of the American Red Cross.

A preliminary meeting of interested persons was called January 17. At that time forty-one signed to take the first aid course. Classes were held at Point View and the final class and distribution of standard and advance first aid certificates were over a week when twenty-four completed both courses and two received standard certificates only.

Members of the First Aid committee who developed the program are hoping that in another year there will be other points around the lake which has a shore line of seventy-five miles, to qualify for emergency first aid stations as well as some cross road points on state highways. Lowell Loomis is retiring president of the county committee and Julius B. Littman is the present president.

Plan Model Airplane Meet

Further study of the plan to hold a model airplane meet in Oakland this summer was made yesterday wtih the arrival of Carl Hopkins, Clarksburg, W. Va., who was sent here by Rep. Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, as a representative of the National Aeronautics Association, Washington.

Hopkins made a tour of the area in company with former Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley, Mayor A. G. Hesen, and I. J. Bosley, and a possible site was selected providing the owner's permission can be obtained.

It was determined, Fraley said, that the space at the Oakland Golf Course was too limited and the large field to the north o town, on Route 219, formerly known as the Evans farm, was chosen.

Stock Market Steadies Selectively But Lack of Interest Is Evident

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — The stock market steadied selectively today after five successive sessions of irregularly lower trends.

Lack of interest was evident from the start. Sizable blocks of low-quoted utilities aided volume. Despite individual strong spots, mixed tendencies held at the close. Transfers totalled 1,020,000 shares compared with 980,000 Thursday.

Sweets Company common, up seven and seven-eighths the day before, added seven and one-eighth more at $75, a 1946 top. Splitup proposals lifted Monsanto Chemical two at $177 and Federated Department Stores two at $75.50. Studebaker advanced one and three-eighths to $37.87. New York and Harlem, down twenty-seven points in the preceding session on ten shares, first transaction since February 19, dropped thirteen more at $285 on a ten-share sale.

Ahead were United States Steel, Goodrich, Woolworth, National Power and Light, Commonwealth and Southern (again the most active), Public Service of New Jersey, Anaconda, Dow Chemical, du Pont, Santa Fe, Southern Railway and National Can. Losers included Bethlehem, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodyear, American Telephone, Great Northern, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Cae and Douglas Aircraft.

On the plus side of the Curb were St. Lawrence common and preferred, Nachman, Electric Bond and Share and Dina Stores. Turnover here was 430,000 shares as against 410,000 yesterday.

Turnover of $3,210,000 compared with $3,980,000 Thursday.

United States governments moved on a steady price footing in the stock exchange and over-the-counter market.

Stock Market Steadies Selectively But Lack of Interest Is Evident

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — The stock market steadied selectively today after five successive sessions of irregularly lower trends.

Lack of interest was evident from the start. Sizable blocks of low-quoted utilities aided volume. Despite individual strong spots, mixed tendencies held at the close. Transfers totalled 1,020,000 shares compared with 980,000 Thursday.

Sweets Company common, up seven and seven-eighths the day before, added seven and one-eighth more at $75, a 1946 top. Splitup proposals lifted Monsanto Chemical two at $177 and Federated Department Stores two at $75.50. Studebaker advanced one and three-eighths to $37.87. New York and Harlem, down twenty-seven points in the preceding session on ten shares, first transaction since February 19, dropped thirteen more at $285 on a ten-share sale.

Ahead were United States Steel, Goodrich, Woolworth, National Power and Light, Commonwealth and Southern (again the most active), Public Service of New Jersey, Anaconda, Dow Chemical, du Pont, Santa Fe, Southern Railway and National Can. Losers included Bethlehem, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodyear, American Telephone, Great Northern, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Cae and Douglas Aircraft.

On the plus side of the Curb were St. Lawrence common and preferred, Nachman, Electric Bond and Share and Dina Stores. Turnover here was 430,000 shares as against 410,000 yesterday.

Turnover of $3,210,000 compared with $3,980,000 Thursday.

Red Cross Sets Up Six First Aid Posts on Lake

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, June 6—The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross has established six emergency first aid stations on Deep Creek lake and has made available two of the latest types H-H portable inhalators, it was announced by the First Aid committee.

The stations are located at Savage's Service center, McHenry; Point View inn, Railey's Stone tavern, Cabin lodge, Beckman-Foy area, and Harvey's peninsula. Inhalators are at Cabin lodge and Point View inn.

Each of the six stations is equipped with stretcher, half ring splint, two blankets and a twenty-four-unit first aid kit, all purchased by the local chapter. The equipment, including highway signs, was in place on the evening of Memorial day.

To qualify a station, a minimum of two trained volunteers at each location are required to have both standard and advanced first aid certificates. The stations have been approved by the Eastern area headquarters of the American Red Cross.

A preliminary meeting of interested persons was called January 17. At that time forty-one signed to take the first aid course. Classes were held at Point View and the final class and distribution of standard and advance first aid certificates were over a week when twenty-four completed both courses and two received standard certificates only.

Members of the First Aid committee who developed the program are hoping that in another year there will be other points around the lake which has a shore line of seventy-five miles, to qualify for emergency first aid stations as well as some cross road points on state highways. Lowell Loomis is retiring president of the county committee and Julius B. Littman is the present president.

Plan Model Airplane Meet

Further study of the plan to hold a model airplane meet in Oakland this summer was made yesterday wtih the arrival of Carl Hopkins, Clarksburg, W. Va., who was sent here by Rep. Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, as a representative of the National Aeronautics Association, Washington.

Hopkins made a tour of the area in company with former Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley, Mayor A. G. Hesen, and I. J. Bosley, and a possible site was selected providing the owner's permission can be obtained.

It was determined, Fraley said, that the space at the Oakland Golf Course was too limited and the large field to the north o town, on Route 219, formerly known as the Evans farm, was chosen.

Red Cross Sets Up Six First Aid Posts on Lake

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, June 6—The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross has established six emergency first aid stations on Deep Creek lake and has made available two of the latest types H-H portable inhalators, it was announced by the First Aid committee.

The stations are located at Savage's Service center, McHenry; Point View inn, Railey's Stone tavern, Cabin lodge, Beckman-Foy area, and Harvey's peninsula. Inhalators are at Cabin lodge and Point View inn.

Each of the six stations is equipped with stretcher, half ring splint, two blankets and a twenty-four-unit first aid kit, all purchased by the local chapter. The equipment, including highway signs, was in place on the evening of Memorial day.

To qualify a station, a minimum of two trained volunteers at each location are required to have both standard and advanced first aid certificates. The stations have been approved by the Eastern area headquarters of the American Red Cross.

A preliminary meeting of interested persons was called January 17. At that time forty-one signed to take the first aid course. Classes were held at Point View and the final class and distribution of standard and advance first aid certificates were over a week when twenty-four completed both courses and two received standard certificates only.

Members of the First Aid committee who developed the program are hoping that in another year there will be other points around the lake which has a shore line of seventy-five miles, to qualify for emergency first aid stations as well as some cross road points on state highways. Lowell Loomis is retiring president of the county committee and Julius B. Littman is the present president.

Plan Model Airplane Meet

Further study of the plan to hold a model airplane meet in Oakland this summer was made yesterday wtih the arrival of Carl Hopkins, Clarksburg, W. Va., who was sent here by Rep. Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, as a representative of the National Aeronautics Association, Washington.

Hopkins made a tour of the area in company with former Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley, Mayor A. G. Hesen, and I. J. Bosley, and a possible site was selected providing the owner's permission can be obtained.

It was determined, Fraley said, that the space at the Oakland Golf Course was too limited and the large field to the north o town, on Route 219, formerly known as the Evans farm, was chosen.

"THEY DON'T UNDERSTAND"

"They don't understand!" How often have you cried that, in your bitterness?

That year you lost little Dan . . . remember? You had known that death would be terrible but you had not guessed that this other terror went with death . . . this desperate feeling of being SET APART . . . of being all alone in despair. Those old friends of yours . . . they had become like strangers. The awful complacency of the mothers who hadn't lost any children! They tried to be kind . . . they comforted you . . . gave you advice. They said they understood. But they DIDN'T! And, somehow, you hated them because they didn't.

You wanted to be fair. You said to yourself that it wasn't their fault if they didn't understand. And yet . . . you felt they should! It was cruel to leave you in such emptiness. Why couldn't they share it with you?

And there was that time you went through your big trouble. The months when everyone seemed to have turned against you . . . even those friends you'd loved and trusted most. Understanding . . . what wouldn't it have meant then! Like a cup of water to a dying man.

Often, during those black months, you thought of the night Christ prayed in Gethsemane. Great as He was He longed for understanding too when He came broken from that bloody struggle with His soul. But His disciples slept. And down through history comes His desolate cry—"COULD YOU NOT WATCH WITH ME ONE HOUR?"

You, too, longed for friends to watch with you . . . to help you through your dark Gethsemane. But they didn't. Something within them slept, blind to your agony. How could they betray you so!

"THEY DON'T UNDERSTAND!"

Those are the bitterest, loneliest words a human tounge can say. They're a cry from hell. And they are more than a cry of resentment. They are a statement of a deep and mysterious fact.

They don't understand . . . they who stand so helplessly, watching you with pitying, stupid eyes . . . murmuring words that unconsciously mock your grief. They don't understand . . . BECAUSE THEY HAVEN'T COME FAR ENOUGH IN LIFE TO UNDERSTAND. They are like little children who are still in the first grade . . . but you have graduated into a grim and higher school of experience. Life is like that . . . a going on from grade to grade. Souls grow up as well as bodies. Sooner or later, each of us must pass through all the grades.

You would not be bitter because a little child could not understand algebra. You should not be bitter with those who do not yet understand Life. You should treat them gently, taking what comfort you can from their love, but not asking more than they are able to give. And if you can do this, there is double blessing in it for you. For it will not only clean you of bitterness . . . BUT IT WILL ALSO GIVE YOU PRIDE AND DIGNITY TO STEADY YOU THROUGH GRIEF.

FOR YOU, WHO DO UNDERSTAND, ARE AMONG THE INITIATED.

You have passed from the pleasant kindergarten of life into a greater grade. You are facing the mysteries. You do not understand the mysteries . . . but there is the beginning of a great wonder in you . . . and the veil that lay before your eyes is moving.

Be patient with them, if they do not understand.

BE GLAD, IN SPITE OF YOUR TEARS, THAT YOU HAVE COME TO THE BEGINNING OF UNDERSTANDING.

Harry Ketterman Enlists in Army

Harry Edward Ketterman, 24, 206 South Mechanic street enlisted in the army Thursday for three years in the engineers corps, for service in the Asiatic-Pacific theater.

Ketterman has eighteen months service with Company B, One Hundred Seventy-fifth Infantry, Twenty-ninth Division. He is married and has a wife and one child living at 206 South Mechanic street here. His father is Herbert F. McCoy, 254 Hull street, Sinking Springs, Pa.

Lt. Col. James T. Cooper, temporarily in charge of the recruiting station here, called attention yesterday to men with dependents who are planning to re-enlist, or who intend to join the army for the first time, that they should do so in June, while family allottments are still paid.

Men enlisting before July 1, he explained will receive regular family allowances for the entire period of service. After July 1, the allowances are no longer provided for by law for men enlisting.

Under the family allowance plan, a soldier allots $22 per month to his family; the government supplements this by an additional $28 per month for his wife and $30 per month for one child and $20 per month for each additional child. Allowances are also provided for dependent parents, brothers and sisters.

The group is headed by S. Page Nelson, of Baltimore.

The sale's campaign officially opened yesterday, the anniversary of D-day, and is to continue through July 4. LISTEN WORLD

"THEY DON'T UNDERSTAND"

"They don't understand!" How often have you cried that, in your bitterness?

That year you lost little Dan . . . remember? You had known that death would be terrible but you had not guessed that this other terror went with death . . . this desperate feeling of being SET APART . . . of being all alone in despair. Those old friends of yours . . . they had become like strangers. The awful complacency of the mothers who hadn't lost any children! They tried to be kind . . . they comforted you . . . gave you advice. They said they understood. But they DIDN'T! And, somehow, you hated them because they didn't.

You wanted to be fair. You said to yourself that it wasn't their fault if they didn't understand. And yet . . . you felt they should! It was cruel to leave you in such emptiness. Why couldn't they share it with you?

And there was that time you went through your big trouble. The months when everyone seemed to have turned against you . . . even those friends you'd loved and trusted most. Understanding . . . what wouldn't it have meant then! Like a cup of water to a dying man.

Often, during those black months, you thought of the night Christ prayed in Gethsemane. Great as He was He longed for understanding too when He came broken from that bloody struggle with His soul. But His disciples slept. And down through history comes His desolate cry—"COULD YOU NOT WATCH WITH ME ONE HOUR?"

You, too, longed for friends to watch with you . . . to help you through your dark Gethsemane. But they didn't. Something within them slept, blind to your agony. How could they betray you so!

"THEY DON'T UNDERSTAND!"

Those are the bitterest, loneliest words a human tounge can say. They're a cry from hell. And they are more than a cry of resentment. They are a statement of a deep and mysterious fact.

They don't understand . . . they who stand so helplessly, watching you with pitying, stupid eyes . . . murmuring words that unconsciously mock your grief. They don't understand . . . BECAUSE THEY HAVEN'T COME FAR ENOUGH IN LIFE TO UNDERSTAND. They are like little children who are still in the first grade . . . but you have graduated into a grim and higher school of experience. Life is like that . . . a going on from grade to grade. Souls grow up as well as bodies. Sooner or later, each of us must pass through all the grades.

You would not be bitter because a little child could not understand algebra. You should not be bitter with those who do not yet understand Life. You should treat them gently, taking what comfort you can from their love, but not asking more than they are able to give. And if you can do this, there is double blessing in it for you. For it will not only clean you of bitterness . . . BUT IT WILL ALSO GIVE YOU PRIDE AND DIGNITY TO STEADY YOU THROUGH GRIEF.

FOR YOU, WHO DO UNDERSTAND, ARE AMONG THE INITIATED.

You have passed from the pleasant kindergarten of life into a greater grade. You are facing the mysteries. You do not understand the mysteries . . . but there is the beginning of a great wonder in you . . . and the veil that lay before your eyes is moving.

Be patient with them, if they do not understand.

BE GLAD, IN SPITE OF YOUR TEARS, THAT YOU HAVE COME TO THE BEGINNING OF UNDERSTANDING.

Harry Ketterman Enlists in Army

Harry Edward Ketterman, 24, 206 South Mechanic street enlisted in the army Thursday for three years in the engineers corps, for service in the Asiatic-Pacific theater.

Ketterman has eighteen months service with Company B, One Hundred Seventy-fifth Infantry, Twenty-ninth Division. He is married and has a wife and one child living at 206 South Mechanic street here. His father is Herbert F. McCoy, 254 Hull street, Sinking Springs, Pa.

Lt. Col. James T. Cooper, temporarily in charge of the recruiting station here, called attention yesterday to men with dependents who are planning to re-enlist, or who intend to join the army for the first time, that they should do so in June, while family allottments are still paid.

Men enlisting before July 1, he explained will receive regular family allowances for the entire period of service. After July 1, the allowances are no longer provided for by law for men enlisting.

Under the family allowance plan, a soldier allots $22 per month to his family; the government supplements this by an additional $28 per month for his wife and $30 per month for one child and $20 per month for each additional child. Allowances are also provided for dependent parents, brothers and sisters.

Piper Is Named Member Of U. S. Savings Bond Committee in State

Charles A. Piper, president of the Liberty Trust Company, has been named a member of the State Advisory Committee to promote the sale of United States Savings Bonds.

The group is headed by S. Page Nelson, of Baltimore.

The sale's campaign officially opened yesterday, the anniversary of D-day, and is to continue through July 4. Nelson has stated this is not a bond drive, but a campaign designed to call attention to the value of savings bonds to the national economy as well as to the individual investment of surplus funds.

Go to Church Sunday - Your Church - Any Church - But Go

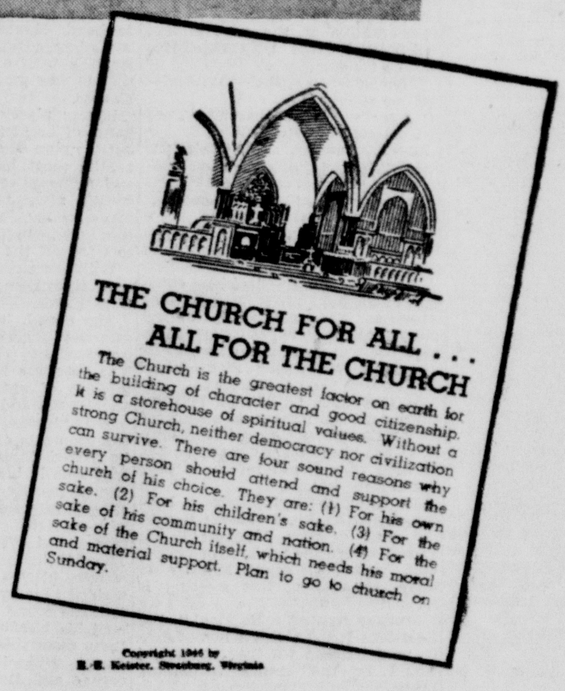

THE ONE IN SIX ?

Will this be the one in six . . . the one American marriage in every six which ends in divorce?

There is no reason why it should be! No unrelenting destiny dictates that one in every six marriages must end in divorce. Men and women dictate that . . . by choosing foolishly . . . by living selfishly . . . by starving love and nursing bitterness.

It could be one in a hundred—or none in ten thousand! For the foundations of happy marriage are the simple foundations of Christian living: love, understanding, sympathy, sacrifice, loyalty, courage, faith. And in our free land those riches can become the possession of every child and man and woman who will seek them where they can be found.

In the Church which invokes God's blessing on marriage is taught the religious truth which guides us to happiness and to God. Our children need the worship, the instruction, the encouragement of the Church. Husbands and wives need them too!

Fort Hill First Baseman Finished Season with .469 Average

Rapping out fifteen hits in thirty-two trips to the plate, Elmer Freeland, first sacker of Fort Hill high school's baseball team won the batting championship of the Tri-State Conference for 1946 by turning in the highest average of .469.

Freeland is a left-handed hitter and thrower.

Harold Scott, Beall high outfielder, finished in second place two points behind the leader while Lou Henry, Beall twirler, was third with an average of .458.

Hyndman high, which tied Beall for second place, placed five players with averages of .300 or better while Beall had four in the select circle and Allegany's champs had three.

Sid Weinbach, Allegany ace, led the pitchers of the six-club circuit with seven wins and no defeats. The Campers' southpaw also led in total strikeouts with eighty-six to his credit.

Lou Henry, of Beall, bagged four wins against a single loss and Johnny Waltman, of Hyndman, was third with five wins and two defeats. The averages:

Teams Untangle Schedule Mess

Eagles and Moose Shift Games Today; Other Tilt Called Off

Untangling a Saturday schedule which called for four games in Cumberland with only one field available, teams of the Interstate Baseball League last night decided to transfer two of the contests to Barrelville and Hyndman and postponed the Moorefield-Fulton Myers tilt until later in the season because of the lack of a playing field here.

The Cumberland Eagles - Barrelville game has been moved to Barrelville and all Eagles players are requested to report at the Eagles' home at 2 p. m. Joe Geatz, of the Eagles, said Barrelville's management called last evening and reported that the field there will be in shape for the game.

The Hyndman-Cumberland Moose game has been moved to Hyndman, Pa., while there will be no change in the Cumberland Legion-Mt. Savage contest at Community Park. All three games listed for today will begin at 4 p. m.

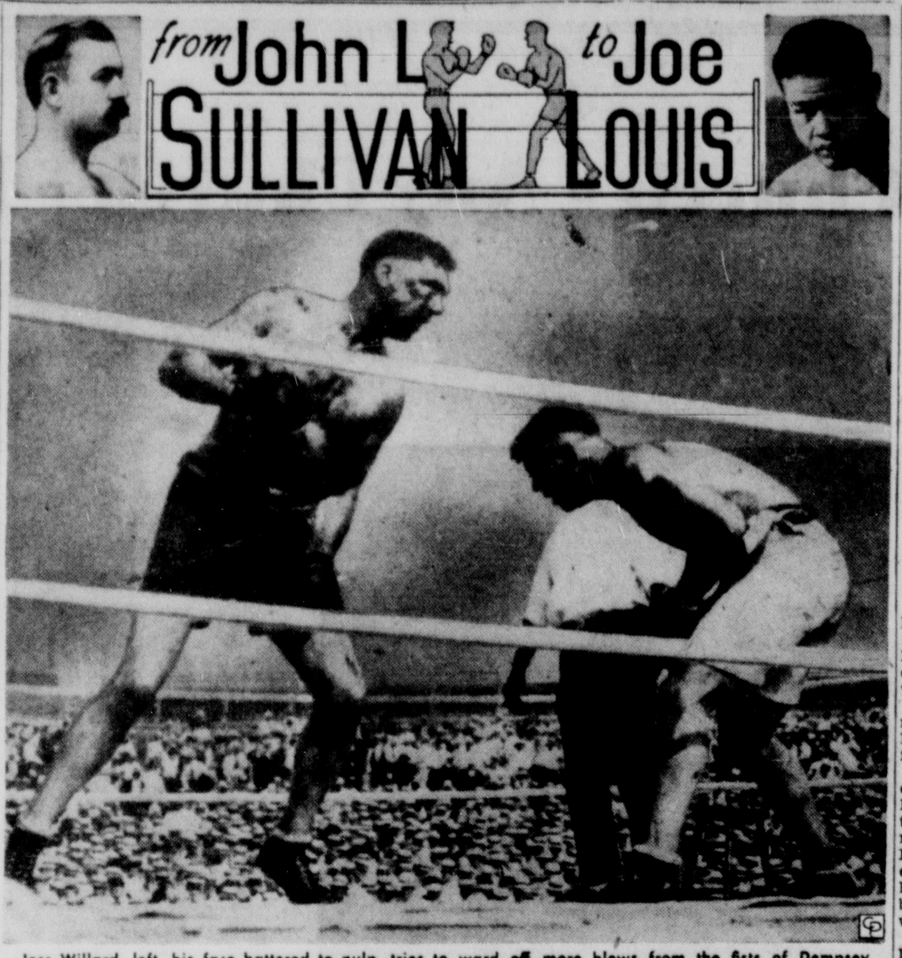

Tomorrow Fulton Myers Post meets Fort Cumberland Post at Community Park, Moose plays in Barrelville, Moorefield is host to Hyndman and the Eagles are billed to play a doubleheader in Mt. Savage, starting at 1.30 p. m. The other Sunday games are set for 3 p. m.

Alton Nave, manager of the Centerville Reds of the Bi-State League, and Enoch Price, Frostburg Legion manager, were instructed by President Roy Beeman to go through with today's game at Centerville, which the managers this week had agreed to postpone and play as part of a twin bill July 21. Nave said the game will be played today at 3 p. m. Other Saturday Bi-State games find Lonaconing at Queen City (Stitcher Field) at 3 p. m., and Westvaco at Midland.

Tomorrow Queen City plays host to the Frostburg Legion on Stitcher field, Westvaco will meet the Barton Braves in Westernport, Midland is host to Centerville and Romney will tangle with Lonaconing at the latter place. The game at Coney is set for 2:30 while the others will get under way at 3 o'clock.

Carl "Pete" Dicken, Bi-State secretary, last night said that games scheduled today were those rained out May 18. Contests stopped by rain on May 26 must be played June 15. Managers of teams received notices to this effect, he said.

Dicken stated that Romney has signed George H. Carbine and Lonaconing has released John Taylor.

Moorefield Will Open Here September 19; Nine Games Booked; 65 Report to Long

Candidates for LaSalle high school's football squad will report for their opening practice session on Thursday, August 15 and the Explorers will launch their 1946 campaign on Thursday, September 19 by playing the Moorefield, W. Va., high school Yellow Jackets under the lights of the Fort Hill stadium, it was announced by Brother Gregory, athletic director, following the initial meeting of candidates with Coach John J. Long last night in Carroll Hall.

Brother Gregory said the Explorers will do much "exploring" this fall inasmuch as five of the nine games already arranged will be played away from home—Hagerstown, Clarksburg, Bedford, Johnstown and Frostburg. The latter game will become an annual Thanksgiving day feature and will be played each year in the Mountain City.

Four Home Games Listed

LaSalle's four home games will be with Moorefield, the 1945 Potomac Valley Conference champions, Fort Hill's Sentinels, Allegany's Campers, defending city champions, and Romney high school.

Last year LaSalle played all of its grid contests—a total of nine—at the Fort Hill stadium.

Brother Gregory said that the open date for Nov. 1 or 2 will likely remain open to give the Explorers a breathing spell after playing three successive weekends away from home. A game probably will be arranged for November 15 or 16 to complete a schedule of ten contests.

LaSalle failed to hold spring football practice in order to concentrate on baseball. Thus a month of training will be held this fall prior to the opening of the season.

Pirate Players Call off Strike

Decision Comes an Hour before Night Game with New York

PITTSBURGH, June 7 (AP) — The threatened strike by the Pittsburgh Pirates for recognition of the American Baseball Guild was averted tonight little more than an hour before the players were scheduled to take the field against the New York Giants.

The terse announcement, "no strike," was made by Bob Rice, field director of the Pirates and head of their farm system, who had been called into a closed meeting by the players.

Rice asserted he did not go in as a representative of the management "but just because they asked for me," he added:

"They said 'no strike'—that's all—just 'no strike.'

"There was no spokesman. They just all sort of said it."

Robert Murphy, labor relations director of the Guild who had claimed ninety-five per cent of the Pirates were members, said he did not know whether the decision would be a fatal blow to the guild.

"I'll have to see the players," he said. "It will hurt a lot."

The "no strike" decision came with suddenness after three days of tenseness and confusion, during which divided expressions came from the players. A strike seemed in the cards Wednesday night when the Pirates played Brooklyn.

At that time, Guildsmen Murphy announced the Pirates by a show of hands had voted to play Brooklyn so as not to disappoint the fans, but he said they would refuse to play the Giants tonight.

All except ball players were barred from the Pirate meeting until the entry of Rice. Manager Frank Frisch, before the session got underway, personally asked Murphy to leave, explaining "this meeting is for players only."

Murphy wanted a National Labor Relations board election immediately to determine whether the Guild would be the team's bargaining agent.

Guild Organizer Murphy later told reporters: "as to our future plans, the mere fact that the guild members did not choose to utilize an economic weapon at this time does not in any way indicate we shall not continue our fight in Pittsburgh."

Dempsey, who was called the "Utah Hurricane" by some because he had fought around Utah mining camps, went into the fight a 10-8 underdog despite the fact he had youth and punching power to pit against the unpopular champion's weight and height.

Toledo was jammed for the fight and hotel rooms weren't to be had. One former department store set up cots and rooms that normally sold for $2 a night went up to $30 and $60 for three nights.

Fight fans came by auto, train, plane and motor boats. Tents were set up on the outskirts of the town to take care of the mob.

Tickets for the fight sold for $10 for bleacher seats to $60 for ringside. Scalpers bought up many, later to take a beating when they couldn't get rid of them.

Highlights of the pre-fight day came when the announcer had his voice insured for $200 two days before the battle and when an unidentified Kansas admirer of Willard's handed out $6,000 in one-dollar bills with a band around each singing the praises of Willard and Kansas.

It was planned to have several hours of preliminaries for the fight but the plan was abandoned because of the great heat. When Willard and Dempsey entered the ring at 4 in the afternoon the temperature was over 100. Many of the spectators had umbrellas over their heads to ward off the sun's rays.

The crowd, later listed at 40,000, was the largest ever to witness a heavyweight championship fight. The gate was between $500,000 and $600,000, of which Willard was given $100,000 and Dempsey $27,500.

Willard was beaten in the first few moments of the fight although he lasted three rounds. For the first time in his career, Willard was floored shortly after the fight began when Dempsey lashed at him with a right. Another right-hand blow felled Willard a second time. The fighting fool from the mining country blasted Willard to the floor a third time by body blows and before the round was up he had powered his bleeding foe to the canvas three more times. When the round ended Willard was down in his corner and Dempsey, thinking the fight was over, began to leave the ring and spectators moved in.

Referee Ollie Pecord, however, ruled the round had ended and Willard came out for the second round. Dempsey battered him again and closed his right eye. He smacked him into the ropes.

In the third Willard staggered about the ring as the crowd yelled for the referee to stop it. The right side of his face was like pulp. When the round ended he plumped down, bleeding and tired on his stool. He conferred with his seconds and a bloody towel came flying into the ring.

After the fight Dempsey went to Cincinnati, O., for a stage appearance at $7,000 a week. Willard, beaten champion, went home to Kansas.

East Side knocked Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, out of first place in the City Softball League yesterday and Lacy's Delicatets took over the leadership by walloping the tailend V.F.W. team.

East Side fell on Gaffney for eleven hits to down the Legion at East Side field by the score of 11 to 4. The winners staged a five-run rally in the fifth featured by Ray Brown's double with the bases loaded and "Chuck" Aman's circuit wallop. A running one-handed catch by Seltzer, East Side's centerfielder, was the fielding highlight.

Orndorff Heads Attack

Paced by "Bee" Orndorff, who connected for four doubles in five times at bat, Lacy's Delicatets took over undisputed possession of first place by walloping the Vets to the tune of 12-4 at Community Park. Hardy smashed a home run for the victors while Gerald Athey hit safely three times in four trips for VFW.

Keegan's Jupers snapped a five-game losing streak when they turned back the Maccabees at Campobello, 7 to 5. Prior to yesterday's tilt the Jupers had scored only three runs in their last five games.

"Red" Morrissey with three singles and Ted Rowan with a triple and single were the Jupers' "big guns" while Phil Minke made several nice catches in right field. Cecil with three hits and Morgan with a home run were the Maccabees' best bets.

Shamrocks Win, 6 to 1

Bob Stallings held Williams Street to five hits as the Shamrocks chalked up a 6 to 1 triumph on the Rolling Mill diamond.

Mike Mulvey started the Shamrocks' 13-hit assault by knocking a homer in the first inning. Joe Geatz collected three hits while Cleggett and Stallings obtained two blows each.

Williams Street scored its lone run in the first inning on an error followed by singles by Pat Algieri and Harry Minnicks. A fast double play started by Cleggett wiped out a Williams Street scoring threat in the seventh inning. The scores:

Worsham's Sub-Par 66 Leads Inquirer Tourney

Lew's 133 for 36 Holes Tops Mike Turnesa by Single Stroke at Halfway Mark

Lew Worsham, pace-setter in the Philadelphia Inquirer golf tournament, is playing professional of the Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C., where he took over his new duties on June 1. He transferred from the Burning Tree Country Club, Bethesda, where he was succeeded by Max Elbin, of Cumberland.

By BOB CAVAGNARO

PHILADELPHIA, June 7 (AP) — War veteran Lew Worsham came in with a sub-par 66 for a 36-hole total of 133 to snatch the lead from Mike Turnesa today and pace the field by one stroke at the halfway mark in the Philadelphia Inquirer $15,000 invitation golf tournament.

Finishing four hours after Turnesa posted his 69 for a total of 134, the Bethesda, Md., professional stroked his way to the front as the original starting field of 138 was reduced to 60 players for the final 36 holes tomorrow and Sunday. Scores of 148 or less qualified for the championship finish.

Noteworthy among the non-qualifiers, all with 151 totals, were Sam Snead, of Hot Springs, Va. (76-75), Frank Stranahan, Toledo amateur champion, (75-76) and Dick Chapman, Mamaroneck, N. Y., former national amateur champion (75-76).

Scoring honors for the second round went to tall Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville, Tenn. Ghezzi stuck a 65 to his opening 70 for 135—good for third place and a tie with Turnesa for the lowest round of the tournament to date.

Harry Harverstick, Jr., Lancaster, Pa., amateur, held sixth place with 137.

The only other players who improved on par at the midway stage, with 139, were Jimmy Demaret of Houston, 60-70; Bob Hamilton of Chicago, former PGA king, 69-70; Harry Todd of Dallas, 70-69, and Capt. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis amateur, 67-72.

Seven strokes behind Worsham were such name players as Herman Keiser, Augusta Masters winner; Herman Barron, former Western Open titlist, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, with 140's, while the pre-tournament favorite, Ben Hogan, who carded 68 today, Ed (Porky) Oliver and Dick Metz were among a group of players bracketed at 141.

Pep Knocks Out Bartolo To Cop Feather Crown

Willie Flattens Boston Battler in Twelfth Round at Garden

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—Wee Willie Pep knocked out Sal Bartolo in twelve rounds of a scheduled 15-round fifth tonight to win undisputed possession of the world featherweight championship in Madison Square Garden. Pep scaled 126; Bartolo 125¼.

Taking command after letting Boston Sal set the pace in the first seven sessions, Willie the Wisp from Hartford, Conn., caught up with the Boston battler in the ninth and went on from there to flatten Bartolo at 2 minutes, 41 seconds of the twelfth.

Thus wiping out one of the dual championships on the books in the battling between the New York Boxing Commission and the National Boxing Association, the determined little fighting man from Connecticut put one 126-pound king on the throne where two have been ruling the roost since Henry Armstrong's heyday back in 1938.

Willie Holds Edge

Up to the time he threw the short right hand "bolo" punch that put Sal to sleep for the full "ten", Wee Willie held a slight edge of 7 to 4 in rounds on the Associated Press score card for the eleven completed heats largely because he was waiting until Sal got rid of all his fireworks in the early going. Then he took off the wraps and wound it up.

On hand to see the featherweight duel title merry-go-round run down for the first time in eight years was a small crowd of 9,881 customers who contributed to a gross gate of $53,486.

For a while it was quite a fight as Bartolo, recognized by the NBA as champion, crowded Pep.

Bartolo Is Counted Out

Bartolo moved off the ropes and caught a left jab and a short right hand from "underneath" as he charged in. He went down to his knees, rolled over, and was still on his back when Referee Ruby Goldstein finished the "ten" count.

Legion Trims Leos

Larruping the offerings of two pitchers for seventeen hits, the Ridgeley American Legion trounced the Ridgeley Leos by the score of 13-2 yesterday in a Frankford District Softball League contest.

Louis Is 13-5 Choice

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 7—(AP)—Joe Louis, now a 13 to 5 favorite to retain his heavyweight crown when he meets Billy Conn on June 19, already has run 402 miles getting ready for the bout.

Louis, who did no boxing today, ran 162 miles in West Baden, Ind., where he started training on February 1.

Eagles and Moose Shift Games Today; Other Tilt Called Off

Untangling a Saturday schedule which called for four games in Cumberland with only one field available, teams of the Interstate Baseball League last night decided to transfer two of the contests to Barrelville and Hyndman and postponed the Moorefield-Fulton Myers tilt until later in the season because of the lack of a playing field here.

The Cumberland Eagles - Barrelville game has been moved to Barrelville and all Eagles players are requested to report at the Eagles' home at 2 p. m. Joe Geatz, of the Eagles, said Barrelville's management called last evening and reported that the field there will be in shape for the game.

The Hyndman-Cumberland Moose game has been moved to Hyndman, Pa., while there will be no change in the Cumberland Legion-Mt. Savage contest at Community Park. All three games listed for today will begin at 4 p. m.

Tomorrow Fulton Myers Post meets Fort Cumberland Post at Community Park, Moose plays in Barrelville, Moorefield is host to Hyndman and the Eagles are billed to play a doubleheader in Mt. Savage, starting at 1.30 p. m. The other Sunday games are set for 3 p. m.

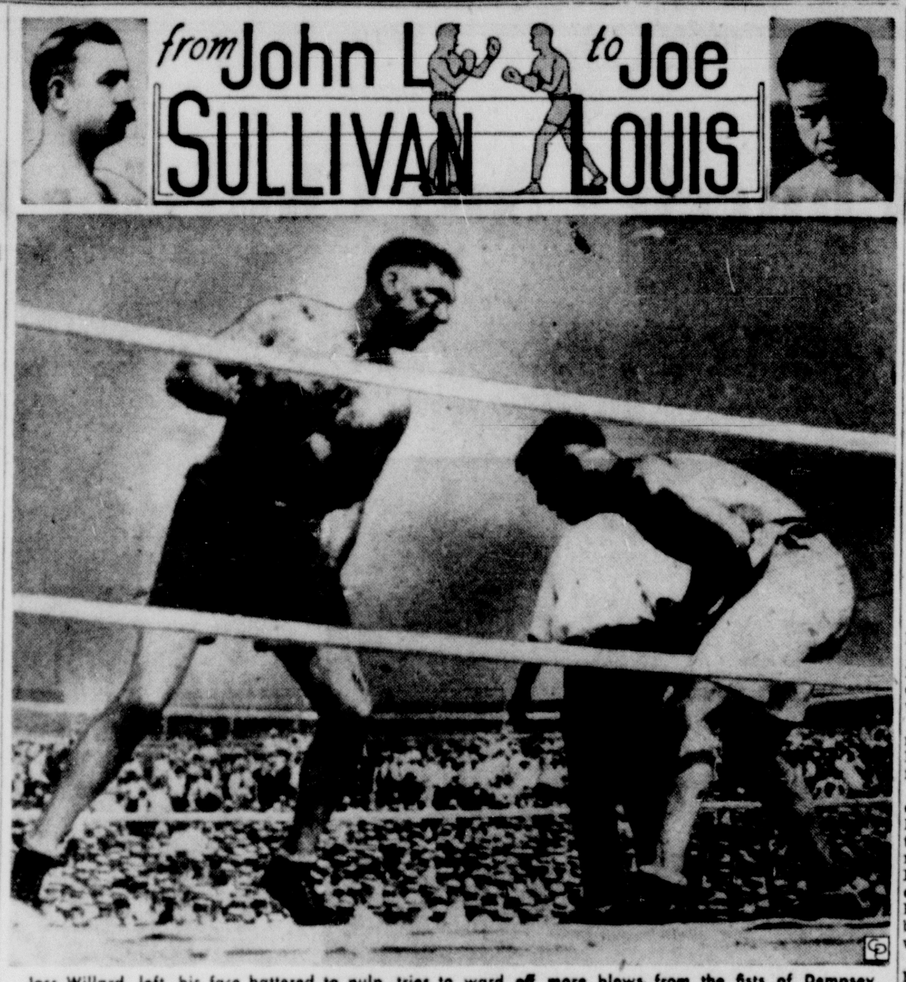

Alton Nave, manager of the Centerville Reds of the Bi-State League, and Enoch Price, Frostburg Legion manager, were instructed by President Roy Beeman to go through with today's game at Centerville, which the managers this week had agreed to postpone and play as part of a twin bill July 21. Nave said the game will be played today at 3 p. m. Other Saturday Bi-State games find Lonaconing at Queen City (Stitcher Field) at 3 p. m., and Westvaco at Midland.

Tomorrow Queen City plays host to the Frostburg Legion on Stitcher field, Westvaco will meet the Barton Braves in Westernport, Midland is host to Centerville and Romney will tangle with Lonaconing at the latter place. The game at Coney is set for 2:30 while the others will get under way at 3 o'clock.

Carl "Pete" Dicken, Bi-State secretary, last night said that games scheduled today were those rained out May 18. Contests stopped by rain on May 26 must be played June 15. Managers of teams received notices to this effect, he said.

Dicken stated that Romney has signed George H. Carbine and Lonaconing has released John Taylor.

Moorefield Will Open Here September 19; Nine Games Booked; 65 Report to Long

Candidates for LaSalle high school's football squad will report for their opening practice session on Thursday, August 15 and the Explorers will launch their 1946 campaign on Thursday, September 19 by playing the Moorefield, W. Va., high school Yellow Jackets under the lights of the Fort Hill stadium, it was announced by Brother Gregory, athletic director, following the initial meeting of candidates with Coach John J. Long last night in Carroll Hall.

Brother Gregory said the Explorers will do much "exploring" this fall inasmuch as five of the nine games already arranged will be played away from home—Hagerstown, Clarksburg, Bedford, Johnstown and Frostburg. The latter game will become an annual Thanksgiving day feature and will be played each year in the Mountain City.

Four Home Games Listed

LaSalle's four home games will be with Moorefield, the 1945 Potomac Valley Conference champions, Fort Hill's Sentinels, Allegany's Campers, defending city champions, and Romney high school.

Last year LaSalle played all of its grid contests—a total of nine—at the Fort Hill stadium.

Brother Gregory said that the open date for Nov. 1 or 2 will likely remain open to give the Explorers a breathing spell after playing three successive weekends away from home. A game probably will be arranged for November 15 or 16 to complete a schedule of ten contests.

LaSalle failed to hold spring football practice in order to concentrate on baseball. Thus a month of training will be held this fall prior to the opening of the season.

Sixty-Five Boys Report

Sixty-five candidates for the LaSalle team met with John J. Long in Carroll Hall last night at which time the opening date of the training season and the nine games scheduled to date were announced.

The schedule:

Sept. 19—Moorefield, here.
Sept. 28—Hagerstown, away.
Oct. 4—Fort Hill, here.
Oct. 12—St. Mary's, Clarksburg, W. Va., away.
Oct. 18—Bedford, Pa., away.
Oct. 25—Johnstown, Pa., Catholic, away.
Nov. 1 or 2—Open date.
Nov. 8—Allegany, here.
Nov. 15 or 16—Open date.
Nov. 22 or 23—Romney, W. Va., here.
Nov. 28—Beall, at Frostburg.

Decision Comes an Hour before Night Game with New York

PITTSBURGH, June 7 (AP) — The threatened strike by the Pittsburgh Pirates for recognition of the American Baseball Guild was averted tonight little more than an hour before the players were scheduled to take the field against the New York Giants.

The terse announcement, "no strike," was made by Bob Rice, field director of the Pirates and head of their farm system, who had been called into a closed meeting by the players.

Rice asserted he did not go in as a representative of the management "but just because they asked for me," he added:

"They said 'no strike'—that's all—just 'no strike.'

"There was no spokesman. They just all sort of said it."

Robert Murphy, labor relations director of the Guild who had claimed ninety-five per cent of the Pirates were members, said he did not know whether the decision would be a fatal blow to the guild.

"I'll have to see the players," he said. "It will hurt a lot."

The "no strike" decision came with suddenness after three days of tenseness and confusion, during which divided expressions came from the players. A strike seemed in the cards Wednesday night when the Pirates played Brooklyn.

At that time, Guildsmen Murphy announced the Pirates by a show of hands had voted to play Brooklyn so as not to disappoint the fans, but he said they would refuse to play the Giants tonight.

All except ball players were barred from the Pirate meeting until the entry of Rice. Manager Frank Frisch, before the session got underway, personally asked Murphy to leave, explaining "this meeting is for players only."

Murphy wanted a National Labor Relations board election immediately to determine whether the Guild would be the team's bargaining agent.

Guild Organizer Murphy later told reporters: "as to our future plans, the mere fact that the guild members did not choose to utilize an economic weapon at this time does not in any way indicate we shall not continue our fight in Pittsburgh."

"Greatest sporting event since the war" is the way some of the newspapers labeled the meeting of big Jess Willard, the heavyweight champion, and Jack Dempsey, the challenger from Manassa, Colo., that blistering hot Friday, July 4, 1919, in Toledo, O.

Dempsey, who was called the "Utah Hurricane" by some because he had fought around Utah mining camps, went into the fight a 10-8 underdog despite the fact he had youth and punching power to pit against the unpopular champion's weight and height.

Promoter Tex Rickard built the great fight palace, the Bay View Park Arena, on the banks of the Maumee river for an estimated $150,000. A crowd of 100,000 persons was expected.

Toledo was jammed for the fight and hotel rooms weren't to be had. One former department store set up cots and rooms that normally sold for $2 a night went up to $30 and $60 for three nights.

Fight fans came by auto, train, plane and motor boats. Tents were set up on the outskirts of the town to take care of the mob.

Tickets for the fight sold for $10 for bleacher seats to $60 for ringside. Scalpers bought up many, later to take a beating when they couldn't get rid of them.

Highlights of the pre-fight day came when the announcer had his voice insured for $200 two days before the battle and when an unidentified Kansas admirer of Willard's handed out $6,000 in one-dollar bills with a band around each singing the praises of Willard and Kansas.

It was planned to have several hours of preliminaries for the fight but the plan was abandoned because of the great heat. When Willard and Dempsey entered the ring at 4 in the afternoon the temperature was over 100. Many of the spectators had umbrellas over their heads to ward off the sun's rays.

The crowd, later listed at 40,000, was the largest ever to witness a heavyweight championship fight. The gate was between $500,000 and $600,000, of which Willard was given $100,000 and Dempsey $27,500.

Willard was beaten in the first few moments of the fight although he lasted three rounds. For the first time in his career, Willard was floored shortly after the fight began when Dempsey lashed at him with a right. Another right-hand blow felled Willard a second time. The fighting fool from the mining country blasted Willard to the floor a third time by body blows and before the round was up he had powered his bleeding foe to the canvas three more times. When the round ended Willard was down in his corner and Dempsey, thinking the fight was over, began to leave the ring and spectators moved in.

Referee Ollie Pecord, however, ruled the round had ended and Willard came out for the second round. Dempsey battered him again and closed his right eye. He smacked him into the ropes.

In the third Willard staggered about the ring as the crowd yelled for the referee to stop it. The right side of his face was like pulp. When the round ended he plumped down, bleeding and tired on his stool. He conferred with his seconds and a bloody towel came flying into the ring.

Willard was beaten. Dempsey, the hard-punching "Hurricane," was the new heavyweight champion of the world.

Damon Runyan, the writer, described Willard's appearance as "like a man who was pulled out of an automobile or a railroad wreck."

After the fight Dempsey went to Cincinnati, O., for a stage appearance at $7,000 a week. Willard, beaten champion, went home to Kansas.

East Side knocked Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, out of first place in the City Softball League yesterday and Lacy's Delicatets took over the leadership by walloping the tailend V.F.W. team.

Lacy's now lead the circuit by the margin of one-half game over the Legion and East Side, deadlocked for runner-up position.

East Side fell on Gaffney for eleven hits to down the Legion at East Side field by the score of 11 to 4. The winners staged a five-run rally in the fifth featured by Ray Brown's double with the bases loaded and "Chuck" Aman's circuit wallop. A running one-handed catch by Seltzer, East Side's centerfielder, was the fielding highlight.

Kemp obtained three of the Legion's eight hits while Whitman, Seltzer and "Chuck" Aman garnered two blows each for the winners.

Orndorff Heads Attack

Paced by "Bee" Orndorff, who connected for four doubles in five times at bat, Lacy's Delicatets took over undisputed possession of first place by walloping the Vets to the tune of 12-4 at Community Park. Hardy smashed a home run for the victors while Gerald Athey hit safely three times in four trips for VFW.

Keegan's Jupers snapped a five-game losing streak when they turned back the Maccabees at Campobello, 7 to 5. Prior to yesterday's tilt the Jupers had scored only three runs in their last five games.

"Red" Morrissey with three singles and Ted Rowan with a triple and single were the Jupers' "big guns" while Phil Minke made several nice catches in right field. Cecil with three hits and Morgan with a home run were the Maccabees' best bets.

Shamrocks Win, 6 to 1

Bob Stallings held Williams Street to five hits as the Shamrocks chalked up a 6 to 1 triumph on the Rolling Mill diamond.

Mike Mulvey started the Shamrocks' 13-hit assault by knocking a homer in the first inning. Joe Geatz collected three hits while Cleggett and Stallings obtained two blows each.

Williams Street scored its lone run in the first inning on an error followed by singles by Pat Algieri and Harry Minnicks. A fast double play started by Cleggett wiped out a Williams Street scoring threat in the seventh inning. The scores:

Worsham's Sub-Par 66 Leads Inquirer Tourney

Lew's 133 for 36 Holes Tops Mike Turnesa by Single Stroke at Halfway Mark

Lew Worsham, pace-setter in the Philadelphia Inquirer golf tournament, is playing professional of the Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C., where he took over his new duties on June 1. He transferred from the Burning Tree Country Club, Bethesda, where he was succeeded by Max Elbin, of Cumberland.

By BOB CAVAGNARO

PHILADELPHIA, June 7 (AP) — War veteran Lew Worsham came in with a sub-par 66 for a 36-hole total of 133 to snatch the lead from Mike Turnesa today and pace the field by one stroke at the halfway mark in the Philadelphia Inquirer $15,000 invitation golf tournament.

Finishing four hours after Turnesa posted his 69 for a total of 134, the Bethesda, Md., professional stroked his way to the front as the original starting field of 138 was reduced to 60 players for the final 36 holes tomorrow and Sunday. Scores of 148 or less qualified for the championship finish.

Noteworthy among the non-qualifiers, all with 151 totals, were Sam Snead, of Hot Springs, Va. (76-75), Frank Stranahan, Toledo amateur champion, (75-76) and Dick Chapman, Mamaroneck, N. Y., former national amateur champion (75-76).

Scoring honors for the second round went to tall Vic Ghezzi of Knoxville, Tenn. Ghezzi stuck a 65 to his opening 70 for 135—good for third place and a tie with Turnesa for the lowest round of the tournament to date.

Harry Harverstick, Jr., Lancaster, Pa., amateur, held sixth place with 137.

The only other players who improved on par at the midway stage, with 139, were Jimmy Demaret of Houston, 60-70; Bob Hamilton of Chicago, former PGA king, 69-70; Harry Todd of Dallas, 70-69, and Capt. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis amateur, 67-72.

Seven strokes behind Worsham were such name players as Herman Keiser, Augusta Masters winner; Herman Barron, former Western Open titlist, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, with 140's, while the pre-tournament favorite, Ben Hogan, who carded 68 today, Ed (Porky) Oliver and Dick Metz were among a group of players bracketed at 141.

Pep Knocks Out Bartolo To Cop Feather Crown

Willie Flattens Boston Battler in Twelfth Round at Garden

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — Wee Willie Pep knocked out Sal Bartolo in twelve rounds of a scheduled 15-round fifth tonight to win undisputed possession of the world featherweight championship in Madison Square Garden. Pep scaled 126; Bartolo 125¼.

Taking command after letting Boston Sal set the pace in the first seven sessions, Willie the Wisp from Hartford, Conn., caught up with the Boston battler in the ninth and went on from there to flatten Bartolo at 2 minutes, 41 seconds of the twelfth.

Thus wiping out one of the dual championships on the books in the battling between the New York Boxing Commission and the National Boxing Association, the determined little fighting man from Connecticut put one 126-pound king on the throne where two have been ruling the roost since Henry Armstrong's heyday back in 1938.

Willie Holds Edge

Up to the time he threw the short right hand "bolo" punch that put Sal to sleep for the full "ten", Wee Willie held a slight edge of 7 to 4 in rounds on the Associated Press score card for the eleven completed heats largely because he was waiting until Sal got rid of all his fireworks in the early going. Then he took off the wraps and wound it up.

On hand to see the featherweight duel title merry-go-round run down for the first time in eight years was a small crowd of 9,881 customers who contributed to a gross gate of $53,486.

For a while it was quite a fight as Bartolo, recognized by the NBA as champion, crowded Pep.

Bartolo Is Counted Out

When the twelfth started Pep poked out a right to the chin that did Sal no good. He circled around some more, waiting for Sal to give him one more chance, and finally it came.

Bartolo moved off the ropes and caught a left jab and a short right hand from "underneath" as he charged in. He went down to his knees, rolled over, and was still on his back when Referee Ruby Goldstein finished the "ten" count.

Legion Trims Leos

Larruping the offerings of two pitchers for seventeen hits, the Ridgeley American Legion trounced the Ridgeley Leos by the score of 13-2 yesterday in a Frankford District Softball League contest.

Louis Is 13-5 Choice

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 7—(AP)—Joe Louis, now a 13 to 5 favorite to retain his heavyweight crown when he meets Billy Conn on June 19, already has run 402 miles getting ready for the bout.

Louis, who did no boxing today, ran 162 miles in West Baden, Ind., where he started training on February 1.

New York Bunts Way to Triumph Over Cleveland

Charley Keller Squeezes over Winning Run in Eleventh, 6-5

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP)—Charley Keller hammered his eleventh home run of the year today, but it was his bases loaded bunt in the eleventh inning that enabled the New York Yankees to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 6-5.

Johnny Murphy, fourth and winning pitcher, walked to start the 11th and Steve Souchuck ran for him. George Stirnweiss bunted and all hands were safe when Pitcher Pete Center's throw to second pulled Lou Boudreau off base. Tommy Henrich also bunted safely, loading the sacks. Keller then dropped a ball in front of the plate to register Souchuck with the tie-breaking run.

Keller, whose seventh inning circuit blast tied the count at 5-5, batted in four runs as the Yanks extended their winning streak to five straight and reduced Boston's first place margin to six games. The Red Sox were idle. Box:

New York Bunts Way to Triumph Over Cleveland

Charley Keller Squeezes over Winning Run in Eleventh, 6-5

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP)—Charley Keller hammered his eleventh home run of the year today, but it was his bases loaded bunt in the eleventh inning that enabled the New York Yankees to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 6-5.

Johnny Murphy, fourth and winning pitcher, walked to start the 11th and Steve Souchuck ran for him. George Stirnweiss bunted and all hands were safe when Pitcher Pete Center's throw to second pulled Lou Boudreau off base. Tommy Henrich also bunted safely, loading the sacks. Keller then dropped a ball in front of the plate to register Souchuck with the tie-breaking run.

Keller, whose seventh inning circuit blast tied the count at 5-5, batted in four runs as the Yanks extended their winning streak to five straight and reduced Boston's first place margin to six games. The Red Sox were idle. Box:

was presented as a candidate for a fifty-year service medal.

Bible School Opens

The daily vacation Bible school, to cover a two-weeks' term, began yesterday. There are four groups in attendance. The section whose ages range from 4 to 5, meet in Zion Lutheran church, with Mrs. Pauline Grof Metz acting as superintendent. Mrs. Cecil Snyder and Miss Sallie Steumpfle are the kindergarten teachers, and Miss Clara Saylor and Miss Elaine Beall have charge of the beginners.

Suicide Verdict Issued in Death Of Pearl Commer

Son Identifies Body of Woman Found Floating in Potomac River

A verdict of suicide by drowning was issued last evening by Dr. Herbert V. Deming, acting deputy county medical examiner, in connection with the death of Mrs. Pearl V. Commer, 48, 224 Emily street, whose body was found floating face down in the Potomac river, just below the Western Maryland railway bridge here about 9:45 a. m. yesterday.

Dr. Deming, who investigated with railroad officials and local police, said the body had been in the water "four or five hours" and added there were no indications of any foul play.

Authorities said the body was discovered by John R. Darr, 521 Valley street, while he was walking along the railroad tracks. He immediately notified H. B. "Mike" Clark, of the Western Maryland railway police department.

Current Carries Body

Police said an impression of the body was found on the bank of the stream just below the first railroad bridge. They added Mrs. Commer walked from there about six steps into the water before the current carried her downstream to where she was found fully clothed, lying face down in about five feet of water below the second bridge.

Dr. Deming said the prints of the body on the bank may have indicated that the woman was standing and fell backwards since two $1 bills and some cigarets were scattered nearby. The only mark on the body was a slight bruise on the head which might have been caused by falling against a small stone.

Identifies Body

Mrs. Commer was identified yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by her son, Virgil Emerick, 224 Emily street, after Police Desk Sgt. John H. Sherry tentatively identified her from a description given to him when he reported to work at 3:45 p. m.

Police said Sgt. Sherry said, "Why that's Mrs. Commer," and suggested that her son, Virgil Emerick, 224 Emily street, be contacted.

Sgt. Serry said that Emerick had been searching for his mother late Thursday evening and added that a purse belonging to the local woman was turned in to police headquarters Thursday by a woman whose husband found the pocketbook on Long hill that day.

Two Sons Survive

Police added that a woman answering Mrs. Commer's description was seen wandering over Western Maryland railway property Wednesday evening.

She was a native of West Virginia, a daughter of the late Joseph C. and Anna Deneen Foreback and had made her home here for the greater part of the past few years.

Surviving are one other son, Irvin Lydic, Hyndman; a brother, Walter Foreback, with the navy, and a sister, Mrs. Nevada Leech, Oregon.

The body will remain at the George funeral home. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last evening.

Ridgeley Legion's Past Commander Rejoins Army

Charles B. Fair Is Charter Member of Knobley Mountain Post

After a year of civilian life, following three years of a colorful and active career in the army, Charles B. Fair, immediate past commander, charter member and one of the founders of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., has decided to re-enlist.

The Ridgeley Legion post was recently assigned a quota of one man for re-enlistment in the army in the grade in which he was discharged, under a plan adopted by the State Department of West Virginia, American Legion, and the Fifth Service Command, United States Army.

Fair said he has given the proposition careful thought, and, after a year of civilian life, during which time he devoted much of his time and energy toward the establishment of an active Legion post in Ridgeley, has decided to re-enter the army.

Discharged Year Ago

The young man was discharged at Fort George G. Meade last June 20, and has arranged through the local recruiting office to go to Baltimore on June 20, the anniversary date of his discharge, for final examination and induction.

Fair is a native of this city, born here November 28, 1919. He graduated from Ridgeley high school in the class of 1937. He was inducted into the army May 7, 1942, at Clarksburg, W. Va., and was sent to Fort Hayes, Ohio. Later he went to Fort D. A. Russell, Texas, where he was assigned to the Eighty-first chemical mortar battalion, which was just being activated.

After spending sometime on maneuvers with his unit in Louisiana in 1943, he then went to Camp Gordon Johnson, Fla., and thence to Camp Pickett, Va. A short time later he sailed with his unit to England and took intensive training for the assault on Europe.

Fair's outfit landed on Omaha beach, Normandy, D-day at H-hour plus sixty minutes, or an hour after the first troops landed. His unit received a Presidential Unit Citation for action on the beach in support of the First infantry division that day.

All together, Fair saw action in France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Austria. He was twice wounded, and in addition to the Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, was also presented the Bronze Star Medal.

Wounded in Action

Fair received the Bronze Star for his part in action which took place August 14, 1944, in Normandy, while his unit was in support of the Second infantry division. Fair was wounded in this action and was hospitalized for several weeks. He received the Purple Heart.

On September 29, 1944, after returning to his organization, he was wounded again in action against the Germans, while supporting the Fifth infantry division near Metz. He received an Oak Leaf Cluster for his Purple Heart, but as a result of his wounds, was hospitalized and evacuated to England for about four months.

Fair had the privilege of participating in the Liberation parade in Paris, France, as a part of the Twenty-eighth division, to which his unit was attached for the affair.

He also was near Weimar, Germany, when Buchenwald concentration camp was liberated, and saw first hand, evidence of the brutalities and horrors practiced there. Fair was the first man in his unit to return to the states under the point system for discharge, leaving his outfit at Styre, Austria.

Since 1937, except for the three years of army service, Fair has been employed as a laboratory assistant at the Celanese plant here, working in the Acetone Recovery department. During the past year, he resumed employment, but found time to participate in civic and veterans' affairs. He was chairman of the Ridgeley Red Cross campaign a few months ago, which was over-subscribed.

Urges Single Term

Fellow - members of Knobley Mountain Post say he could have been re-elected post commander at the election last week, but declined on the principal that no commander should serve more than a single term, but that another man should be given a chance each year. He urged the post to follow this precedent.

Fair has re-enlisted for a period of three years for service in the European theater, and chose chemical warfare as his branch. He says he believes the army offers him an opportunity which he does not have elsewhere and that he wants to see Europe under peacetime conditions nd during its rehabilitatior

Soldier Is Hurt In Car Accident

Five Other Persons Are Treated for Various Injuries

A Route 1, Ocean, soldier, Paul Byrnes, was in a good condition last evening in Miners hospital where he was admitted at 5 p. m. for observation and treatment of injuries suffered when the car he was driving crashed on the Pompey road, about a mile and a half south of Vale Summit.

Trooper Glen D. Folk, who investigated for state police, said Byrnes suffered a laceration on the left leg and an abrasion on the right cheek when the car he was driving, apparently at a high rate of speed, turned over several times.

The trooper said the car, a 1939 Chevrolet sedan, was practically a total loss.

The soldier's brother, Billy Byrnes, riding with him, escaped injury, Trooper Folk said. He added that charges will probably be preferred against Byrnes who did not have an operator's license.

Injured in Crash

Leroy Nelson, 37, 236 North Mechanic street, was treated in Memorial hospital last evening at 8:45 o'clock for a fracture of the shoulder blade and a laceration on the left eyelid. Attaches were told the local man was injured when the car in which he was riding crashed at Hyndman, Pa. He was advised to return to the hospital for X-rays. Pennsylvania State Police are investigating the crash.

James Frazee, 20, Friendsville, was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday at 7:20 p. m. for a right hand injury suffered, the lumber worker explained, when a log fell on his hand.

Three Others Injured

Patricia Ann Eury, 2½, 618 North Centre street, was treated yesterday morning in Allegany hospital after she injured her left shoulder in a fall out of bed.

Clarence Baker, 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Baker, Williams road, was treated yesterday morning in Allegany hospital for burns about the legs. Attendants said the child upset a bucket of scalding water.

Wiley Ford Girl Is Slightly Hurt When Hit by Car

Donna Jeanne Eyre, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Eyre, Wiley Ford, W. Va., was treated in Allegany hospital last evening at 6:20 o'clock for a slight abrasion on the right ankle, suffered, attaches were told, when she was struck by a car at the Wiley Ford bridge.

Attaches were told the girl ran in front of a car driven by Roy C. Kimble, Ridgeley, W. Va.

Miss Mary Hoffa, 32, Olympia hotel, was treated in the same hospital at 3:30 p. m. for first degree burns of the face and right arm. Miss Hoffa, a cook at the Star restaurant here, said she was injured when flames from an oven door she was opening blew out on her.

Theodore Sachs, 41, 766 Maryland avenue, was treated in Allegany hospital at 6:20 p. m. for an injury of the great toe of the right foot. The B. and O. worker said a flat piece of iron fell on his foot. X-rays will be taken to determine the extent of injuries.

Elgin Says Next Governor Should Be Businessman

Tells Tawes Workers at Local Rally Lane Deserted Vets

Expressing the opinion that more businessmen are needed in government, W. Lee Elgin, Maryland Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, addressed over a hundred county Democrats, in the Fort Cumberland hotel ballroom last night, at a "Tawes for Governor" workers' rally.

Elgin explained to his audience that he is in the campaign as an active supporter of the Tawes ticket and became state chairman of the "Tawes for Governor Committee," because he knows "Tawes is more qualified to become governor than any other candidate." Elgin said he has much respect for the many competent lawyers in the state, but believes the time has come when a businessman should be elected governor.

"The problems facing government and the people today are not merely legal problems, but business problems, requiring experienced businessmen as leaders," he declared.

Says Lane Left Legion

Elgin referred to recent publicity given the presentation of a scroll bearing 1,000 names of veterans supporting W. Preston Lane, principal opponent of Tawes. He explained that he and Lane are members of the same American Legion post in Hagerstown, and to his knowledge, Lane has never attended a Legion meeting.

"In 1923," Elgin said, "it is a matter of record in the Hagerstown Legion, that Lane resigned from the post, stating he could not go along with an organization that was asking the government to pay soldiers a bonus. But later, in 1932, when he aspired to the office of attorney general, Mr. Lane renewed his interest in the Legion and joined the post again.

"Once more," the speaker declared, "Mr. Lane is now courting favor from the veterans and making promises to win the veterans' votes, but the veteran should ask himself if he will desert them again."

Elgin said Baltimore newspapers and papers in other parts of the state have been "decidedly unfair" in this campaign, have consistently omitted statements and news stories of the "Tawes for Governor Committee," and have given many columns of space to the Lane campaign.

Refers to "Bossism"

Referring to "bossism" in Maryland politics and government, Elgin said Western Maryland has more than its share of it, and it is worse than anything some people try to say exists in Baltimore.

"In Hagerstown the Lane people," Elgin said, "are out to purge thirteen candidates not acceptable to the Lane dominated state central committee."

Elgin said "the Lane people are doing everything they can to save the head of their ticket. They have dropped Hammond, (the Lane candidate for attorney-general) in this county, and have dropped Lacy (their candidate for state comptroller) in Frederick county, hoping to win Tawes supporters over to the Lane side.

"But the trick is not working," Elgin declared as he claimed the Tawes-Cobey-Roloson ticket is assured seventy-nine electoral votes, without claiming Allegany county or three districts in Baltimore. "In computing the total, doubtful counties and districts have not been counted," he assured his audience.

Elgin praised W. Earl Cobey local attorney and candidate on the Tawes ticket for attorney general. He said Cobey has been well received all over the state, and "Mr. Tawes and Mr. Roloson are going

Crane Operator Asks Damages after Being Injured in Fall

Asking $15,000 damages, suit was filed by titling in circuit court yesterday by A. J. Bennear, Paw Paw place, against the Gulf Oil Company. Attorneys said Bennear was injured in a fall at a company service station on the West Side about four weeks ago.

John T. Fey, one of Bennear's attorneys, said the oil company was doing some construction work at the service station when Bennear, walking, tripped and fell over a piece of re-enforcing steel or cable projecting from the sidewalk.

Her attorney, Ryan, said they were married September 24, 1944, and lived together to November 1, 1944. She also asked the right to resume her maiden name, Louise Hines.

Chief Judge William A. Huster has granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Mary F. Gerlach, 36, McMullen highway, from Earl W. Gerlach. The wife, employed by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, charged desertion. Her attorney, Ryan, said they were married in 1926 and lived together until 1945.

Mrs. Ralph Stein Proposed To Head City Playgrounds

Park Board Will Recommend Her Appointment to Mayor, Council

Recommendation of the appointment of Mrs. Ralph Stein, 450 Walnut street, as supervisor of the seven city playgrounds will be made to the mayor and city council next week, members of the park board said yesterday.

Mrs. Stein, a native of Moorefield, W. Va., resided in Gormania, W. Va., for a number of years before coming to Cumberland. Her husband has been employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant for the past twenty-four years. She is a member of the Women's Republican club and of the Valley Road Homemakers club.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that discussion of the appointment will probably be brought up at a meeting of the mayor and council next Friday to pass the payroll. Fifteen applications have been received for the posts of playleaders at the playgrounds, and thirteen leaders will be appointed at the meeting, the mayor added.

The seven playgrounds, which will be opened Monday, June 17, include North End, East Side, Gephart, West Side, Mt. Royal, South End and Pine Avenue. Each will have two playleaders with the exception of the Pine Avenue playground, which will have one.

Playgrounds, which will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays, will be under the direct supervision of the park board, which includes Mayor Post, Commissioner Myers G. Light and Mrs. Marguerite E. Findlay. Leaders will work on shifts, the first being from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and the second from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Trip of Ridgeley Group to Vicksburg Is Postponed

A plane trip to Vicksburg, Miss., originally scheduled for early next week by a flood control committee representing Ridgeley, W. Va., for the purpose of inspecting the flood control model there, has been postponed pending word from Vicksburg as to whether the model has been dismantled, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

Mayor Post said that army engineers are expected to notify H. W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, as to whether the model, set up at the United States Waterways Experiment Station in Vicksburg, is still intact.

The mayor pointed out that since both Cumberland and Ridgeley, through their respective mayors and city councils, have passed resolutions approving the flood control plan, the model may have been dismantled to make space for other experimental models.

In the event the Ridegeley delegation does make the trip to Vicksburg, Mayor Post said that he and Commissioner Myers G. Light plan to go down by car to inspect the model.

The Ridgeley flood control committee, named last week by Mayor Odbert R. Poling, includes Poling, Paul Blundon, Keyser, W. Va., engineer for Ridgeley; J. H. Simmons and James Dougherty, both of Ridgeley; and Fred T. Small, Cumberland, manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America. The latter was named because he has been working actively with the Ridgeley group.

Dr. Cameron Cites Nation's Mental Health Problems

Eight Million Americans Need Psychiatric Care, Speaker Says

Stating that approximately eight million persons in the United States are in need of psychiatric assistance, Dr. Dale C. Cameron, addressing 105 persons yesterday evening at a dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, outlined a five-point program through which a higher degree of national mental health may be attained.

Dr. Cameron, assistant chief of the division of mental hygiene, United States Public Health Service, discussed the topic "Mental Health—a National Asset." The dinner climaxed the one-day spring meeting of the Maryland State Nurses Association, held here yesterday.

The first point in the program outlined by Dr. Cameron is training of personnel. In this connection, he pointed out that there is a deficit of about 3,800 psychiatrists needed for public service, such as in state and veterans' hospitals, and for outpatients clinics. This deficit does not include the number of psychiatrists needed for the army and navy, city or county hospitals, private practice and teaching, he pointed out, adding that there are only between 3,500 and 4,000 psychiatrists in the country.

There is also a deficit of 1,800 clinical psychologists, with only about 500 in the country at the present time, Dr. Cameron said. In addition, about 15,600 hospital attendants are needed, and about 14,000 psychiatric nurses.

Remaining points in the five-point program are the need for increased research into the causes, diagnosis, treatment and prevention of various mental illnesses; improved service in existing mental hospitals; improved mental health programs at the community level, by means of psychiatric clinics; and providing information regarding different types of mental illnesses to various lay and professional groups.

Dr. Cameron said that the National Committee for Mental Hygiene has stated that there should be one all-purpose psychiatric clinic for every 100,000 persons in the country.

Although the nation as a whole has only twenty per cent of that number of clinics, Maryland leads the other forty-seven states with seventy-five per cent of the goal cited by the committee, the speaker said.

One of these clinics could be operated for an estimated $35,000 annually, according to Dr. Cameron. He pointed out that fifteen per cent of all patients in state mental hospitals could be released earlier if they could get follow-up treatment at a clinic, adding that many persons would not have to be admitted to mental hospitals at all if they were able to receive treatment at a psychiatric clinic.

Mrs. Elizabeth Norwood, president of the Maryland State Nurses Association, presided at the dinner and paid tribute to the fourteen veterans of service in the army and navy nurse corps who attended the dinner as guests of District 1 of the association. Each of the service nurses was presented with a corsage of spring flowers.

Following the speaking program, three musical selections were presented by Dr. Albert Cook, Dr. C. C. Zimmerman and the Rev. Frederick Becker, O.F.M., Cap. Dr. Cook and Dr. Zimmerman played violin duets, accompanied by Father Becker at the piano.

The tables were decorated with orange tapers and bouquets of daisies. The color motif was carried out in orange place cards with tiny white scrolls listing the menu and the program.

Approximately 100 nurses attended a luncheon yesterday at 12:30 p. m., in the Allegany hospital nurses' home, where the business sessions and speaking programs of the spring meeting were held. They were guests of the alumnae associations of the schools of nursing of Allegany and Memorial hospitals.

Among the delegates attending the all-day session were association members from Baltimore and Hagerstown.

One Man Is Needed To Complete City's Marine Platoon

One more man is needed to complete the Cumberland platoon of United States Marines, which will be sworn into service June 11 at 8 p. m. on the stage of the Strand theater by Maj. K. B. Pickel and Maj. Harry T. Taylor at a public ceremony, according to S-Sgt. Murrel W. Brainerd, local recruiter.

Allegany high school band and a capella choir, directed by Miss Dorothy Willison, will also take part in the program, as a number of the young men enlisting in the platoon are from that school.

Following the ceremony Tuesday night, the men will spend the night at the state armory, and will have lunch at Central YMCA Wednesday noon. The Sons of the Legion Drum Corps of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will escort the platoon to the Queen City station, where they will board a special coach for Parris Island, S. C., to begin their training.

The platoon is to number sixty or more men, Sgt. Brainerd explained, and fifty-nine men have enlisted to date. Fifty-six names were released for publication a couple of days ago, and since then, the following names have been added:

Paul Ray Davis, this city; James Henry Paugh, Davis, W. Va., and Donald Eugene Burkey, Deerfield, Ohio, who has been visiting here and decided to enlist with the local unit.

The recruiting office will be open today and also Sunday afternoon, Sgt. Brainerd said, to enroll and examine any other men who want to enlist with the local platoon.

Suicide Verdict Issued in Death Of Pearl Commer

Son Identifies Body of Woman Found Floating in Potomac River

A verdict of suicide by drowning was issued last evening by Dr. Herbert V. Deming, acting deputy county medical examiner, in connection with the death of Mrs. Pearl V. Commer, 48, 224 Emily street, whose body was found floating face down in the Potomac river, just below the Western Maryland railway bridge here about 9:45 a. m. yesterday.

Dr. Deming, who investigated with railroad officials and local police, said the body had been in the water "four or five hours" and added there were no indications of any foul play.

Authorities said the body was discovered by John R. Darr, 521 Valley street, while he was walking along the railroad tracks. He immediately notified H. B. "Mike" Clark, of the Western Maryland railway police department.

Current Carries Body

Police said an impression of the body was found on the bank of the stream just below the first railroad bridge. They added Mrs. Commer walked from there about six steps into the water before the current carried her downstream to where she was found fully clothed, lying face down in about five feet of water below the second bridge.

Dr. Deming said the prints of the body on the bank may have indicated that the woman was standing and fell backwards since two $1 bills and some cigarets were scattered nearby. The only mark on the body was a slight bruise on the head which might have been caused by falling against a small stone.

Identifies Body

Mrs. Commer was identified yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock by her son, Virgil Emerick, 224 Emily street, after Police Desk Sgt. John H. Sherry tentatively identified her from a description given to him when he reported to work at 3:45 p. m.

Police said Sgt. Sherry said, "Why that's Mrs. Commer," and suggested that her son, Virgil Emerick, 224 Emily street, be contacted.

Sgt. Serry said that Emerick had been searching for his mother late Thursday evening and added that a purse belonging to the local woman was turned in to police headquarters Thursday by a woman whose husband found the pocketbook on Long hill that day.

Two Sons Survive

Police added that a woman answering Mrs. Commer's description was seen wandering over Western Maryland railway property Wednesday evening.

She was a native of West Virginia, a daughter of the late Joseph C. and Anna Deneen Foreback and had made her home here for the greater part of the past few years.

Surviving are one other son, Irvin Lydic, Hyndman; a brother, Walter Foreback, with the navy, and a sister, Mrs. Nevada Leech, Oregon.

The body will remain at the George funeral home. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last evening.

Charles B. Fair Is Charter Member of Knobley Mountain Post

After a year of civilian life, following three years of a colorful and active career in the army, Charles B. Fair, immediate past commander, charter member and one of the founders of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., has decided to re-enlist.

The Ridgeley Legion post was recently assigned a quota of one man for re-enlistment in the army in the grade in which he was discharged, under a plan adopted by the State Department of West Virginia, American Legion, and the Fifth Service Command, United States Army.

Fair said he has given the proposition careful thought, and, after a year of civilian life, during which time he devoted much of his time and energy toward the establishment of an active Legion post in Ridgeley, has decided to re-enter the army.

Discharged Year Ago

The young man was discharged at Fort George G. Meade last June 20, and has arranged through the local recruiting office to go to Baltimore on June 20, the anniversary date of his discharge, for final examination and induction.

Fair is a native of this city, born here November 28, 1919. He graduated from Ridgeley high school in the class of 1937. He was inducted into the army May 7, 1942, at Clarksburg, W. Va., and was sent to Fort Hayes, Ohio. Later he went to Fort D. A. Russell, Texas, where he was assigned to the Eighty-first chemical mortar battalion, which was just being activated.

After spending sometime on maneuvers with his unit in Louisiana in 1943, he then went to Camp Gordon Johnson, Fla., and thence to Camp Pickett, Va. A short time later he sailed with his unit to England and took intensive training for the assault on Europe.

Fair's outfit landed on Omaha beach, Normandy, D-day at H-hour plus sixty minutes, or an hour after the first troops landed. His unit received a Presidential Unit Citation for action on the beach in support of the First infantry division that day.

All together, Fair saw action in France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Austria. He was twice wounded, and in addition to the Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, was also presented the Bronze Star Medal.

Wounded in Action

Fair received the Bronze Star for his part in action which took place August 14, 1944, in Normandy, while his unit was in support of the Second infantry division. Fair was wounded in this action and was hospitalized for several weeks. He received the Purple Heart.

On September 29, 1944, after returning to his organization, he was wounded again in action against the Germans, while supporting the Fifth infantry division near Metz. He received an Oak Leaf Cluster for his Purple Heart, but as a result of his wounds, was hospitalized and evacuated to England for about four months.

Fair had the privilege of participating in the Liberation parade in Paris, France, as a part of the Twenty-eighth division, to which his unit was attached for the affair.

He also was near Weimar, Germany, when Buchenwald concentration camp was liberated, and saw first hand, evidence of the brutalities and horrors practiced there. Fair was the first man in his unit to return to the states under the point system for discharge, leaving his outfit at Styre, Austria.

Since 1937, except for the three years of army service, Fair has been employed as a laboratory assistant at the Celanese plant here, working in the Acetone Recovery department. During the past year, he resumed employment, but found time to participate in civic and veterans' affairs. He was chairman of the Ridgeley Red Cross campaign a few months ago, which was over-subscribed.

Urges Single Term

Fellow - members of Knobley Mountain Post say he could have been re-elected post commander at the election last week, but declined on the principal that no commander should serve more than a single term, but that another man should be given a chance each year. He urged the post to follow this precedent.

Fair has re-enlisted for a period of three years for service in the European theater, and chose chemical warfare as his branch. He says he believes the army offers him an opportunity which he does not have elsewhere and that he wants to see Europe under peacetime conditions and during its rehabilitation

Five Other Persons Are Treated for Various Injuries

A Route 1, Ocean, soldier, Paul Byrnes, was in a good condition last evening in Miners hospital where he was admitted at 5 p. m. for observation and treatment of injuries suffered when the car he was driving crashed on the Pompey road, about a mile and a half south of Vale Summit.

Trooper Glen D. Folk, who investigated for state police, said Byrnes suffered a laceration on the left leg and an abrasion on the right cheek when the car he was driving, apparently at a high rate of speed, turned over several times.

The trooper said the car, a 1939 Chevrolet sedan, was practically a total loss.

The soldier's brother, Billy Byrnes, riding with him, escaped injury, Trooper Folk said. He added that charges will probably be preferred against Byrnes who did not have an operator's license.

Elgin Says Next Governor Should Be Businessman

Tells Tawes Workers at Local Rally Lane Deserted Vets

Expressing the opinion that more businessmen are needed in government, W. Lee Elgin, Maryland Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, addressed over a hundred county Democrats, in the Fort Cumberland hotel ballroom last night, at a "Tawes for Governor" workers' rally.

Elgin explained to his audience that he is in the campaign as an active supporter of the Tawes ticket and became state chairman of the "Tawes for Governor Committee," because he knows "Tawes is more qualified to become governor than any other candidate." Elgin said he has much respect for the many competent lawyers in the state, but believes the time has come when a businessman should be elected governor.

"The problems facing government and the people today are not merely legal problems, but business problems, requiring experienced businessmen as leaders," he declared.

Says Lane Left Legion

Elgin referred to recent publicity given the presentation of a scroll bearing 1,000 names of veterans supporting W. Preston Lane, principal opponent of Tawes. He explained that he and Lane are members of the same American Legion post in Hagerstown, and to his knowledge, Lane has never attended a Legion meeting.

"In 1923," Elgin said, "it is a matter of record in the Hagerstown Legion, that Lane resigned from the post, stating he could not go along with an organization that was asking the government to pay soldiers a bonus. But later, in 1932, when he aspired to the office of attorney general, Mr. Lane renewed his interest in the Legion and joined the post again.

"Once more," the speaker declared, "Mr. Lane is now courting favor from the veterans and making promises to win the veterans' votes, but the veteran should ask himself if he will desert them again."

Elgin said Baltimore newspapers and papers in other parts of the state have been "decidedly unfair" in this campaign, have consistently omitted statements and news stories of the "Tawes for Governor Committee," and have given many columns of space to the Lane campaign.

Refers to "Bossism"

Referring to "bossism" in Maryland politics and government, Elgin said Western Maryland has more than its share of it, and it is worse than anything some people try to say exists in Baltimore.

"In Hagerstown the Lane people," Elgin said, "are out to purge thirteen candidates not acceptable to the Lane dominated state central committee."

Elgin said "the Lane people are doing everything they can to save the head of their ticket. They have dropped Hammond, (the Lane candidate for attorney-general) in this county, and have dropped Lacy (their candidate for state comptroller) in Frederick county, hoping to win Tawes supporters over to the Lane side.

"But the trick is not working," Elgin declared as he claimed the Tawes-Cobey-Roloson ticket is assured seventy-nine electoral votes, without claiming Allegany county or three districts in Baltimore. "In computing the total, doubtful counties and districts have not been counted," he assured his audience.

Elgin praised W. Earl Cobey local attorney and candidate on the Tawes ticket for attorney general. He said Cobey has been well received all over the state, and "Mr. Tawes and Mr. Roloson are going

Mrs. Ralph Stein Proposed To Head City Playgrounds

Park Board Will Recommend Her Appointment to Mayor, Council

Recommendation of the appointment of Mrs. Ralph Stein, 450 Walnut street, as supervisor of the seven city playgrounds will be made to the mayor and city council next week, members of the park board said yesterday.

Mrs. Stein, a native of Moorefield, W. Va., resided in Gormania, W. Va., for a number of years before coming to Cumberland. Her husband has been employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant for the past twenty-four years. She is a member of the Women's Republican club and of the Valley Road Homemakers club.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that discussion of the appointment will probably be brought up at a meeting of the mayor and council next Friday to pass the payroll. Fifteen applications have been received for the posts of playleaders at the playgrounds, and thirteen leaders will be appointed at the meeting, the mayor added.

The seven playgrounds, which will be opened Monday, June 17, include North End, East Side, Gephart, West Side, Mt. Royal, South End and Pine Avenue. Each will have two playleaders with the exception of the Pine Avenue playground, which will have one.

Playgrounds, which will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays, will be under the direct supervision of the park board, which includes Mayor Post, Commissioner Myers G. Light and Mrs. Marguerite E. Findlay. Leaders will work on shifts, the first being from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and the second from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Trip of Ridgeley Group to Vicksburg Is Postponed

A plane trip to Vicksburg, Miss., originally scheduled for early next week by a flood control committee representing Ridgeley, W. Va., for the purpose of inspecting the flood control model there, has been postponed pending word from Vicksburg as to whether the model has been dismantled, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

Mayor Post said that army engineers are expected to notify H. W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, as to whether the model, set up at the United States Waterways Experiment Station in Vicksburg, is still intact.

The mayor pointed out that since both Cumberland and Ridgeley, through their respective mayors and city councils, have passed resolutions approving the flood control plan, the model may have been dismantled to make space for other experimental models.

In the event the Ridegeley delegation does make the trip to Vicksburg, Mayor Post said that he and Commissioner Myers G. Light plan to go down by car to inspect the model.

The Ridgeley flood control committee, named last week by Mayor Odbert R. Poling, includes Poling, Paul Blundon, Keyser, W. Va., engineer for Ridgeley; J. H. Simmons and James Dougherty, both of Ridgeley; and Fred T. Small, Cumberland, manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America. The latter was named because he has been working actively with the Ridgeley group.

Dr. Cameron Cites Nation's Mental Health Problems

Eight Million Americans Need Psychiatric Care, Speaker Says

Stating that approximately eight million persons in the United States are in need of psychiatric assistance, Dr. Dale C. Cameron, addressing 105 persons yesterday evening at a dinner at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, outlined a five-point program through which a higher degree of national mental health may be attained.

Dr. Cameron, assistant chief of the division of mental hygiene, United States Public Health Service, discussed the topic "Mental Health—a National Asset." The dinner climaxed the one-day spring meeting of the Maryland State Nurses Association, held here yesterday.

The first point in the program outlined by Dr. Cameron is training of personnel. In this connection, he pointed out that there is a deficit of about 3,800 psychiatrists needed for public service, such as in state and veterans' hospitals, and for outpatients clinics. This deficit does not include the number of psychiatrists needed for the army and navy, city or county hospitals, private practice and teaching, he pointed out, adding that there are only between 3,500 and 4,000 psychiatrists in the country.

There is also a deficit of 1,800 clinical psychologists, with only about 500 in the country at the present time, Dr. Cameron said. In addition, about 15,600 hospital attendants are needed, and about 14,000 psychiatric nurses.

Remaining points in the five-point program are the need for increased research into the causes, diagnosis, treatment and prevention of various mental illnesses; improved service in existing mental hospitals; improved mental health programs at the community level, by means of psychiatric clinics; and providing information regarding different types of mental illnesses to various lay and professional groups.

Dr. Cameron said that the National Committee for Mental Hygiene has stated that there should be one all-purpose psychiatric clinic for every 100,000 persons in the country.

Although the nation as a whole has only twenty per cent of that number of clinics, Maryland leads the other forty-seven states with seventy-five per cent of the goal cited by the committee, the speaker said.

One of these clinics could be operated for an estimated $35,000 annually, according to Dr. Cameron. He pointed out that fifteen per cent of all patients in state mental hospitals could be released earlier if they could get follow-up treatment at a clinic, adding that many persons would not have to be admitted to mental hospitals at all if they were able to receive treatment at a psychiatric clinic.

Mrs. Elizabeth Norwood, president of the Maryland State Nurses Association, presided at the dinner and paid tribute to the fourteen veterans of service in the army and navy nurse corps who attended the dinner as guests of District 1 of the association. Each of the service nurses was presented with a corsage of spring flowers.

Following the speaking program, three musical selections were presented by Dr. Albert Cook, Dr. C. C. Zimmerman and the Rev. Frederick Becker, O.F.M., Cap. Dr. Cook and Dr. Zimmerman played violin duets, accompanied by Father Becker at the piano.

The tables were decorated with orange tapers and bouquets of daisies. The color motif was carried out in orange place cards with tiny white scrolls listing the menu and the program.

Approximately 100 nurses attended a luncheon yesterday at 12:30 p. m., in the Allegany hospital nurses' home, where the business sessions and speaking programs of the spring meeting were held. They were guests of the alumnae associations of the schools of nursing of Allegany and Memorial hospitals.

Among the delegates attending the all-day session were association members from Baltimore and Hagerstown.

One Man Is Needed To Complete City's Marine Platoon

One more man is needed to complete the Cumberland platoon of United States Marines, which will be sworn into service June 11 at 8 p. m. on the stage of the Strand theater by Maj. K. B. Pickel and Maj. Harry T. Taylor at a public ceremony, according to S-Sgt. Murrel W. Brainerd, local recruiter.

Allegany high school band and a capella choir, directed by Miss Dorothy Willison, will also take part in the program, as a number of the young men enlisting in the platoon are from that school.

Following the ceremony Tuesday night, the men will spend the night at the state armory, and will have lunch at Central YMCA Wednesday noon. The Sons of the Legion Drum Corps of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will escort the platoon to the Queen City station, where they will board a special coach for Parris Island, S. C., to begin their training.

The platoon is to number sixty or more men, Sgt. Brainerd explained, and fifty-nine men have enlisted to date. Fifty-six names were released for publication a couple of days ago, and since then, the following names have been added:

Paul Ray Davis, this city; James Henry Paugh, Davis, W. Va., and Donald Eugene Burkey, Deerfield, Ohio, who has been visiting here and decided to enlist with the local unit.

The recruiting office will be open today and also Sunday afternoon, Sgt. Brainerd said, to enroll and examine any other men who want to enlist with the local platoon.
